GERMANY FACES CRISIS

Second Arrest in Pastor's Wife Murder

Political Strife Unloosed by Murder of Dr. Erzberger, Leaps High---Sunday Demonstrations Is Followed by Assembly of Cabiret.

By FRANK E. MASON
I. N. S. Staf Correspondent

BERLIN, Aug. 29.—The flames of political strife unloosed by the murder of Dr. Mathias Erzberger leaped high today when the full news of yesterday's demonstraions in other towns was told and when Chancellor Wirth summoned his cabinet to an extraordinary session to discuss the international crisis.

Two workingmen were killed and a third was mortally wounded in a clash between "Reds" and monarchists yesterday afternoon at Potsdam.

Potsdam Demonstration

Potsdam bristled with uniforms of men and officers of the old army, including some famous generals, who had defied the government's order forbidding a demonstration in celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Tannenburg. At the same time the city swarmed with radicals who had heeded the summons of the Rote Fahne, to make a counter demonstration.

Police Fire on Reds

Police fired into a throng of workingmen when the latter resisted an attempt to throw their red flags into the canal. The inter-party strife and bitterness continues to grow hourly in intensity and the menace of a cabinet crisis still loomed large today. Moderate elements of all parties were bending their energies to prevent it realizing that nothing could be more disastrous to Germany at this moment, when the war-crippled industries are just beginning to regain their bearing and when the league of nations council is about to make a final disposition of Upper Silesia.

Investigation of Murder

Meanwhile the investigation into Erzberger's assassination continues. The coroner's jury rendered a verdict of "political martyr." It was found at the inquest that the shots that killed the Contrist leader were fired from two different revolvers.

The latest clue which the police were investigating today was that an unknown voice telephoned to the newspaper Badische Presse at noon of the day of the murder—last Friday—asking if there was any information about Erzberger, whose assassination had not yet been discovered at that time.

Erzberger's "home town," Biberbach, having offered to erect a monument and donate a "grave of honor" to its most famous soldier, the funeral arrangements were changed by the widow today. The murder victim will be buried in Biberbach on Wednesday, instead of Berlin.

A funeral ceremony for the dead politician yesterday, was addressed by ex-Chancellor Fehrenbach and Minister of Posts Giesbert.

BUILDING TRADES STRIKE ENDS AT BAY CITY

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 29.—It was estimated that 4000 of the 11,000 building trades craftsmen on strike for four months, returned to work today. The men returned to work as individuals and, according to the Builders' Exchange, there was no red tape or formality connected with their return. They went to work on a modified form of the American plan, drafted by the Chamber of Commerce. No discrimination was to be shown union members. It was expected that it would require three weeks to put all of the striking men back on their old jobs.

CALIFORNIAN IS KILLED IN MEXICO

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—David Emile Richards, an American citizen of Niles, Calif., was murdered on August 26 by Mexicans near the town of Chibela, Mexico, according to advices to the state department today. No details of the murder were given. The nearest relative is Israel Richards, father, of Niles, Calif. It is believed that the murder was the work of bandits.

The state department, it is understood, will make representations to Mexico for the apprehension of the murderers.

VICTIM WAS CATTLEMAN

NILES, Calif., Aug. 29. — David Emile Richards, reported in Washington dispatches to have been killed by Mexican bandits, is the son of Israel Richards, towerman for the Southern Pacific railroad here. He had been employed in an executive capacity for several years with several American cattle companies in Mexico and South America, his father announced today, and had only recently gone to Mexico after a tour of South America. The elder Richards is planning to have the body brought here for burial.

$250,000 IS SECURED IN BANK ROBBERY

CHICAGO, Aug. 29.—Five men, two watchmen and three others whose identity the police are concealing, are held today in connection with the robbery of the Security Safety Deposit Vaults in the Masonic Temple. Loot obtained by four men who participated in the robbery is estimated as high a $250,000.

Ernest Weber and Milton Jonas are the guards who are held. Chief of Detectives Hughes declares they have told extraordinary stories.

According to the present police version of the affair the four men approached Weber, the outer guard at the vault, and one of them asked to rent a safety deposit vault. Weber accepted payment for the vault and gave the men a card admitting them. Inside, the men are said to have drawn guns, bound and gaged Jonas and proceeded to break open 19 boxes with hammers and chisels.

Several of the boxes in the vaults are said to be used by gamblers to store their winnings and it is believed that the robbers knew this and sought to loot the boxes rented by the sportsmen. Although several of the boxes opened contained liberty bonds and other securities, only cash was taken.

CHICAGO, Aug. 29.—Several hundred depositors stormed the Security Trust Company today.

Officials declared the thieves had thrown aside more than $500,000 in easily negotiable bonds, securities and unset diamonds.

ALLIES TROOPS TO SILESIA

LONDON, Aug. 29.—Two battalions each of English, French and Italian troops will be sent to Upper Silesia to reinforce the allied soldiers already there, Germany was notifed today. In addition to the infantry, France will send a detachment of cavalry.

30 INDEPENDENT OIL COMPANIES SIGN WAGE SCALE

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 29.—Walter Yarrow, counsellor for the Union Oil Workers, announced today that 30 independent companies have agreed to follow the action of the Shell Oil Company in signing another year's agreement with their men along the lines negotiated by federal mediators. The oil men accept cuts of $1 a day, the new scale ranging from $.. to $9 instead of from $6 to $10.

Possibility of a strike of at least of the skilled oil field workers on Thursday still loomed today, as five big companies, including the Associated Union, Pacific, Pan-American and General Petroleum, have declined to deal with the men.

UNEMPLOYMENT NOW UNDER DISCUSSION BY GOVERNMENT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—Steps by the administration to prevent a winter of suffering due to unemployment, were going forward today.

Secretary of Commerce Hoover was completing plans for a national unemployment conference which will be called by the President within the next few weeks.

The President, it is understood, has directed other cabinet members to consider the question of unemployment in order that the whole question and methods of remedying it may be worked out in the cabinet next week.

It is the plan of Secretary Hoover to have the unemployment conference during the early part of September so representatives of large industry, labor and the government may cooperate in an effort to produce the maximum employment.

A survey of the unemployment situation will be made by the conference, and it is expected some measures of re-distribution of labor will be worked out.

Controversy questions will not be permitted to enter into the discussions of the conference on unemployment, which President Harding is to call shortly. This was announced today by Secretary Hoover.

The question of the effect of open shop on unemployment or other matters which are points at issue between labor and capital, will not be permitted to enter into the work of the conference, the secretary says.

SINN FEINERS AVOID CLASH; SUGGESTS FURTHER TALK

LONDON, Aug. 29.—The Sinn Fein's reply to Premier Lloyd George's note of last Friday was dispatched to London this afternoon, according to the Central News. It is understood, the Central News says, that the note suggests immediate direct conversations between representatives of the Sinn Fein and Premier Lloyd George.

ENGLISH OPPOSE STEEL SCHEDULES

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—The appearance of a deputation of English businessmen before the Senate finance committee Wednesday to oppose some of the steel schedules of the pending tariff bill, is expected by Senator today to further emphasize the international aspects of the proposed erection of American trade barriers.

The admission of an English deputa and to have no connection with the British government itself, except that tion to a hearing of the Senate finance committee on the tariff is described by the State Department as "unofficial."

Mrs. E. D. Barber, Alias Mrs. E. D. Dunks, Taken Into Custody as Accomplice

SAN JOSE, Calif., Aug. 29.—The investigation of the death of Mrs. Emma T. Spencer at Lakeport has taken a new and sensational turn.

Rev. John A. Spencer, husband of the dead woman, is already in the Lake county jail, charged with the murder.

Today Mrs. E. D. Barber, alias Mrs. E. D. Dunks, was under arrest here, charged with conspiracy to commit murder.

It was at the home of Mrs. Barber here that Rev. Spencer was arrested. She is said to have been living in a house belonging to the former pastor.

Mrs. P. H. Palmer, of Santa Rosa, friend of Mrs. Spencer, whose suspicions caused the initial investigation, is said to have charged that Spencer aroused his wife's jealousy by attentions to Mrs. Barber, then known as Mrs. E. D. Dunks.

Sheriff B. F. Shaul of Lake county, who made the arrest here, refused to disclose on what grounds Mrs. Barber was being charged with conspiring to murder Mrs. Spencer. He said the investigation of District Attorney H. G. Churchill of Lake county was "progressing satisfactorily."

TURKS WIN ANOTHER VICTORY OVER GREEKS

LONDON, Aug. 29.—Another crushing defeat has been inflicted on the Greek army in Asia Minor, according to a Constantinople dispatch today. Mustapha Kemal's Turkish Nationalist forces have captured Yenichehir, and the entire left wing of King Constantine's army is threatened with disaster.

AUSTRIANS START WAR ON HUNGARY

VIENNA, via Berlin, Aug. 29.—Two members of the Austrian gendarmie were killed, including a colonel, and seven were wounded, in another clash between Austrian and Hungarian troops in West Hungary today.

NEGRO STARTS SHOOTING

BRISTOL, Tenn., Aug. 29.—Three officers were wounded and a negro was killed last night in a pitched battle in the railway yards at Morriston, Tenn., according to news received here today.

The negro was shot dead, a bullet entering his heart. The negro, using a shotgun, wounded one policeman in the thigh and two others less seriously. More than a hundred shots were fired.

The trouble started when the negro quarreled with some small boys. When the officers went after him he started firing.

BURGLAR IS SLAIN IN RUNNING FIGHT

PETALUMA, Calif., Aug. 29.—An unidentified burglar was shot and killed near here today and Chief of Police Flohr wounded, in a gun battle between officers and the fugitive robber.

Early today a grocery store was burglarized. Chief of Police Flohr and Ernest Roberts, a member of the fire department, started a search for the burglar.

He was located near an old stone crusher and opened fire as soon as the officers approached. Flohr fell with a bullet through his right leg. Roberts returned the fire and the burglar fell dead.

APPOINTMENTS MADE OF CALIFORNIANS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—President Harding today named as a recess appointee, Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrant of California to be assistant attorney-general, succeeding Mrs. Annette Adams, also of California.

The President also named J. T. Wilkins as United States district attorney for the northern district of California.

DR. LINDVILLE IS OREGON DRY HEAD

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—Dr. Jos. A. Lindville, of Carlton, Ore., today was named as prohibition director for the state of Oregon by Internal Revenue Commissioner Blair.

BRITISH REGULARS TAKE THE FIELD IN INDIAN REVOLT

Refugees Relate Pitiful Tales of Torture, Violent Death and Looting by Molpaps

BOMBAY, Aug. 29.—Pitiful tales of torture, violent death and looting were told by refugees who arrived at Calicut today from the terror zone of Ernad in the Mallabar district where the Moplap natives are on the warpath. British infantry and cvalry have arrived at Calicut and a British warship is anchored in the harbor.

At home points the Indians have raised the green flag and the disorders have developed into rebellion.

ENGLISH PREMIER DECLINES TO WAIT

LONDON, Aug. 29.—Premier Lloyd George departed today for Edinburgh and Perth without waiting for the Sinn Fein reply to his note of last Friday and without conferring with Sir James Craig, head of the Unionist government of Ulster, who came here to consult the cabinet on the Irish peace situation.

Upon his arrival at Edinburgh the Premier consulted with Sir Hamar Greenwood, chief secretary for Ireland, who is in that city.

Sinn Fein Rumor

An unconfirmed report was circulated today that Arthur Griffiths is to replace Eamonn de Valera as head of the Sinn Fein delegation when it goes to London against to confer with Premier Lloyd George.

The report is significant not only in that it appears to take for granted that the Irish plenipotentiaries will go o London again, but because of the implied "shake-upp" in the high councils of the Sinn Fein. Arthur Griffiths has been contrasted with de Valera as the more aggressive and more radical. He is generally credited with being the real founder of the Sinn Fein. When de Valera was in America, he was "acting president of the Irish republic." Less scholarly than de Valera, he is more direct and his personality appeals more to the masses than does that of his reserved and austere chief.

OUTBREAK AT BELFAST

BELFAST, Aug. 29.—There was an outbreak of revolver firing here early today but no casualties were reported.

PRESIDENT'S AUNT AMAZES FRIENDS

GALION, Ohio., Aug. 29.—Local election officials and voters in a booth here were amazed when Mrs. Ellen Harding Dickerson, aunt of President Harding, voted a Democratic ticket at the recent primary election.

Mrs. Dickerson grew up with the President in the same neighborhood.

The astonishment was all the more marked because Mrs. Dickerson was a member of the Harding-Coolidge Club last fall and has always been a pronounced Republican.

She gave no reason for her political change.

Mrs. Dickerson went to Washington to witness her nephew's inauguration, accompanied by two of his aged uncles.

NEBRASKA EDITOR NAMED

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—President Harding will appoint Charles W. Puxley, a Nebraska editor, as assistant secretary of agriculture it was learned at the White House today. Puxley will succeed Dr. Elmer D. Ball who has tendered his resignation effective October 1.

SEVERE LOSSES SUSTAINED

LONDON, Aug. 29.—Bitter fighting has broken out between Hungarian soldiers and Austrian genedarmes over the town of Oedenburg, according to a dispatch from Vienna today. Serious losses have been sustained on both sides. The Hungarians are led by Ostenburg and Hajjas, both famous war veterans. The fighting began when the Austrion genedarmes started to occupy Oedenburg, which is a town much disputed between Austria and Hungary.

FIVE MINERS KILLED IN WEST VIRGINIA SUNDAY BATTLE

LOGAN, W. Va., Aug. 29.—Logan county's battle front was quiet this morning following a flare-up of fighting at Beach Creek, near Camp Four, early Sunday morning, in which five miners are reported to have been killed in a clash with state police, according to information from state police headquarters at Ethel, five miles from here.

State police today took the view that the Sunday fighting was purely local in character and that it had nothing to do with the march of 5,000 strikers from Marmet toward Mingo county.

Miners to Reassemble

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Aug. 29.—Runners have been sent out in the Cabin Creek coal district, asking the miners who returned to their homes Saturday from Logan and Boone counties, to re-assemble at Marmet immediately, according to a statement made by a coal operator there this morning. Thus far the report lacks confirmation from other sources.

A report thus far unconfirmed, says that a woman was shot this morning near Ethel in a new outbreak there.

OPERATION CALLED OFF; TEETH FOUND

(By International News Service)

DELPHOS, O., Aug. 29.—Julian Fast, manufacturer, thought that he had swallowed his false teeth in a fit of laughter, when a hen stole a sandwich he was eating in his yard. He was rushed to a hospital, apparently choking to death, and arrangements were made for an operation. Word was received at the last moment, however, not to operate, as the teeth had been found in the yard.

A bite of sandwich and a lively imagination produced the choking sensation, from which Fast rapidly recovered when he learned his mistake.

JOINT FUNERALS FOR ZR-2 VICTIMS

LONDON, Aug. 29.—American and British aviation authorities conferring today on the question of holding joint funeral services for the victims of the ZR-2 disaster before the bodies of the Americans are shipped to the United States, it was believed certain that such joint services would be decided upon.

THERE'S SALT FOR ALL

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—The United States produced sufficient salt in 1920 to allow 130 pounds for every person in the country, according to figures just made here. Actually, it is stated, the average person consumed only a few pounds yearly for a seasoning, the remainder of this vast allowance being used for packing meat, curing fish, tanning, dairying, refrigerating and for chemical purposes.

MEXICAN OIL CONFERENCE

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 29.—The presidents of a number of American oil companies having extensive properties in Mexico arrived here today to confer with officials of the Mexican government upon the increasing export tax and the restrictions imposed by Article 27 of the Federal Constitution.

MOSCOW GETS RELIEF

LONDON, Aug. 29.—The first expedition of American relief workers to enter Russia reached Moscow today. They reported their arrival by wireless to the local Russian relief headquarters. The radiogram made no mention of the conflagration which was reported last week to be raging in the Russian capital.

TONG WAR THREATENING

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 29.—Police in Chinatown today were on the alert for reprisals expected to follow the slaying of Leong Luie Sang, Chinese matinee idol known as the Chinese Julian Eltinge. They believe a love affair with a woman affianced to a member of a rival tong caused the killing and because of his prominence, double vengeance will probably be demanded by his tongs.

RETAIL EXPOSITION OPENS HERE WITH HUGE CROWDS

'Buy In Glendale' Announced as Slogan by City Manager W. H. Reeves

The old saying: "You can't see the forest for the trees," is but a vivid expression of the truth that perspective is necessary to a clear vision of anything. That is what the Greater Glendale Exposition is providing. It epitomizes the products and business of Glendale and puts them before the public in a manner that makes possible a survey that could be obtained in no other way.

Good-Natured Folks

The opening on Saturday was a great demonstration of this, and the pride and satisfaction with which all Glendale elbowed its way through the crowds of good-natured sight-seers, and the comments: "I had no idea!" "Isn't this wonderful?" "Who would have dreamed that Glendale could make such a showing?" proved that it was an eye-opener to the majority of the visitors in the big tent.

At the psychological moment, H. Elmo LaBreque silenced the great throng to extend a word of greeting from the management to the patrons and exhibitors. He then introduced Mayor Spencer Robinson, who made a short, characteristic speech in which he congratulated Glendale on its exposition and on the fact that it did not have to go to Los Angeles to see a representative and highly creditable trade show.

City Manager Speaks

He then in turn introduced City Manager William H. Reeves, who said in part, after tendering his congratulations:

"We certainly have some live ones here tonight. I thought when I read the slogans, "Buy at Home,' 'Buy in Glendale,' that it wouldn't be a bad idea to paraphrase one of these slogans by leaving out a 't' and making it read: 'Buy a home—Buy in Glendale.'

"At such a time as this I always wish I might be a Cicero or Demosthenes in order to fitly express what I feel.

"A few days ago, I had an opportun-

C. OF C. SWINGS OVER THE TOP IN DRIVE FOR MEMBERS

The drive for 100 members for the Glendale Chamber of Commerce is a thing of the past. At 10 o'clock this morning the one hundredth Glendale resident made application for admission to the chamber. This is, without doubt, the greatest drive for new members that has ever been put on by the Glendale chamber, and the workers went over the top this morning with a shout.

Total Number Secured in Two Weeks

When this morning dawned the workers had 98 members and applications to their credit. These had all been secured in something like two weeks, which shows there has been something doing in the way of bringing in the "strays." With two new applications to be signed up, Assistant Secretary Sanders and his assistant student-secretary, Henry Purinton left the Chamber of Commerce this morning with blood in their eyes, as they say. There was a determination there that could not be denied. Well, they picked these two applications up before 10 o'clock and the string is still in one piece.

Truly remarkable work has been done in this contest. Mr. Sanders has been on the job day and night, with the result that a number of memberships have been received that was far beyond the fondest dreams of anyone connected with the drive. That good-natured smile that Friend Sanders always carried around with him, along with his truly remarkable explanatory powers, has turned the trick. All Mr. Sanders has to do to get a new member is to go into his place of business or residence, smile, tell him how well he is looking, wave his hands in the air for a couple of minutes and very softly remark, "Kindly sign on the dotted line." As a rule they sign, as is shown by the number of new members he has enrolled.

Not Through Yet

Brother Sanders tells us that he is not going to lay down on the job, so far as the membership drive is concerned. He will, however, begin to put more of his time toward the grand rally for new members that will

BODY OF GLENDALE HERO OF A. E. F. AWAITS BURIAL

Military Funeral for Sergeant John A. Schaeffer Delayed by Mother's Illness

No arrangements have yet been made for the burial of the body of Sergeant John A. Schaeffer, which was brought back to Glendale, the town in which he was born, from Flanders field on August 19.

At the time it reached here, his mother, Mrs. Lena Schaeffer, of Los Angeles, and her daughter, Mrs. August Bentler, of Imperial Valley, were making an auto tour of the state of Washington and it has not been possible to communicate with them. They returned Saturday, but Mrs. Schaeffer was so ill that her children feared to tell her until she was in better physical condition, so postponed the announcement until this morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Schaeffer, of this city, have said that funeral arrangements will be made some time today and that they are certain the mother and family of Sergeant Schaeffer will be glad to have the military funeral with which the Glendale Post, American Legion, and the Glendale Company, National Guard, desire to honor this hero of the World War who lost his life on September 26, 1918, in the Argonne drive, just two weeks after he reached the firing line.

AMERICAN LEGION DELEGATES RETURN

Commander Emil Kiefer, Past Adjutant James F. McBryde, Vincent Salmacia, Burt Richardson and "Nish" Parkseken who represented the Glendale Post of the American Legion at the great encampment and convention in the Yosemite Valley are at home again.

Commander Kiefer says it was a wonderful gathering with so much business transacted.

The party left here Sunday, August 21, and the convention was opened Wednesday morning by Commander Buron Fitts. Speeches were made by Governor Stephens and representatives from National headquarters.

As to the business transacted a change in the constitution which makes the office of state adjutant appointive instead of elective was to Mr. Kiefer one of the most important because it means greater efficiency.

The election of John R. Quinn of Delano as commander for the coming year was another big moment, but scarcely less was the election of E. B. Rosencrans of Los Angeles as first vice commander.

One day was set aside for sightseeing and every day there were entertainments with a dance in the evening.

The encampment next year will be held in San Jose some time in August, Mr. Kiefer says.

TRAFFIC VIOLATORS FINED

Following are cases disposed of in Judge Lowe's court this morning and this hearing is the closing one for the month:

THE ELITE STANDS FOR QUALITY

BREAD IS ONE OF THE MAIN features of our daily diet, and one of the most important. Why, then, should we sacrifice quality for quantity in this most necessary food? By buying an inferior quality bread you are losing just so much nourishment! Now, at the ELITE SWEET SHOP, of 134 South Brand boulevard, you can buy Van de Kamp's breads and pastries, which are considered the best in the city, for they are made of the purest of ingredients. The bread crust is never underdone—always a crisp, golden brown. They weigh quite a good deal more than the cheaper loaves, and contains almost twice as much nourishment, for, as I say, the materials are all pure! And, their pastries at the Elite too, are the best to be found, so stop in at the Bakery Department and try some!

HOW DO YOU FEEL ABOUT IT?

Isn't it true that only too few of us realize the important part that Master Plumbers play in making our city a better place to live in? Mr Sheehy at the GLENDALE PLUMBING CO. of 134 South Orange street, says: "To the uninformed, the plumbing business appears to be a 'lead pipe cinch'—a business of mystery with the plumber a tinker with a fondness for sending shockingly big bills." But an expert, efficient plumber must have training and technical knowledge of mechanics and of sanitary engineering. Every householder and builder should be guided by someone who knows what they are talking about—and can really assure him of satisfaction and the successful installation of his fixtures. Just such a person is Mr. Sheehy, for has he not been, for a number of years, recognized as one of the most successful and foremost men of his trade? If you call the Glendale Plumbing Company and have them install your plumbing system from A to Z, you need never worry about the plumbing in the new house, for once they undertake a thing it will be well done—done to endure for years to come and you will have found the road which leads to "Satisfactory Service in Plumbing." Call the Glendale Plumbing Company today and let them figure on your work!

FROM RADIATOR TO TAIL-LIGHT

THE SHERIDAN ABOUT WHICH I TOLD YOU last week has already been sold, and mighty proud is the man who owns it, too But, even then, you are not too late, for haven't you seen the new Sheridan at the CLUB GARAGE, 107 East Colorado street? It is a car that bespeaks quality from the tip of its radiator to its tail-light. Beautifully equipped with tonneau shields, windshield wings, a sunshade, a tonneau lamp with a 12-foot extension cord for emergency use, and even oversize cord tires, the Sheridan may well be called the "Car Complete"! If you call Mr. Murphy, at the Club Garage, Glendale 53, he will be glad to give you a demonstration, just to show you what the wonderful Sheridan will do—what power there is in the engine.

INTRODUCING THE YOUNGEST JEWEL

OH! WHAT A WONDERFUL MONDAY! The housewife who is using the Rotapex Electric Washer no longer awakes on Monday morning with a sense of dread for washday—but she can now enjoy the beauty of the morning to her full capacity! For in just no time at all the clothes have been sorted and put in the Rotapex, where they're merrily tumbled about in the soapy water—and without the slightest danger of tangling or knotting! The clothes are power washed and power wrung—for it is a machine of sturdy construction and with an unusually powerful motor! You need never worry about the mechanism of your Rotapex getting out of order—for, it simply "isn't done," that's all! Year in and year out, Monday after Monday, the Rotapex Unitized Electric Washer will be a source of satisfaction and helpfulness to all the family! And, at the Merchant's Exposition, stop to investigate the adorable little miniature Rotapex, which the JEWEL ELECTRIC COMPANY of 200 East Broadway is exhibiting there. It looks just like a doll's machine, but, no, it is a perfect working model, and will wash clothes, just as well as the larger models. Mr. Wittmeyer, of the Jewel Electric Company calls it "the youngest member of the Jewel family"—but it is a member of which to be mighty proud!

REV. UTTER SPEAKS TO LARGE NUMBER ON SUNDAY

There was a large attendance at Central Christian Church, Sunday morning, to hear J. W. Utter, founder and for five years pastor of the congregation. He stated at the opening of the service how glad he was to get back among his old friends at least once a year, and spoke in high terms of the action of the official board that made this visit possible, that of sending the regular pastor to the annual International Convention and paying all his expenses, thereby setting an example which other churches in the brotherhood were commenting on most favorably and would doubtless most of them, follow. He said he had preached 33 years, all but three of them in California, and was now taking a year's lay-off, but had decided to take up the regular work again soon, and thereafter take a year's lay-off every 33 years during his future life.

The text chosen was, 1 Corinthians 13:13: "And now abideth faith, hope and love, these three, but the greatest of all is love." He touched upon the folly of the 13 superstition and quoted Canon Farrar's statement that the 13th chapter of First Corinthians, "the love chapter," had done the world more good than all the philosophy of the ages.

The faith chapter, Hebrews 16, was touched upon and the faith of Noah, Abraham, Moses and other mighty men of old referred to as examples, then the speaker came down to the history of the early church and to many manifestations of miraculous power in the Apostles' time through faith. New Testament allusions to hope were then taken up, such as its being referred to as "the helmet of salvation" and "the anchor that saves the soul, reaching within the vail." But, towering above all, said the speaker, love is the greatest force in the world, for it is underneath God's plan for man's redemption. "God so loved the world that He gave His Son," and Christ showed His love for man when He gave His Life for him on the cross. "The Son of God became the Son of Man that the sons of men might become Sons of God."

The subject for the evening sermon was "The Three Seas," which the speaker said were the Red Sea of decision, the Dead Sea of selfishness, and the Sea of Galilee representing generous life. In crossing the Red Sea the hosts of Israel definitely decided to forsake the land of bondage and enter upon the new life of promise, so every Christian at some time in his life must decide to forsake the bondage of sin and enter upon the new life in Christ, and as children of Israel were baptized in the cloud and the sea, just so must the penitent believer go down into the waters of baptism. The Dead Sea, in which nothing can live, represents the life of selfishness, which constantly receives God's many gracious gifts, but gives nothing to those around it. The Sea of Galilee, teeming with exuberant life and covered with boats of commerce darting here and there over its waters, which were always fresh because constantly renewed by the inpouring of the Jordan flood and given outlet by the same river below. So the spirit-filled life constantly receives God's gifts and pours them out in good deeds and generous giving.

SUPPORT OF 91ST DIVISION IS URGED BY BANKER

"Insurance against emergency." That is the way a Los Angeles banker today characterized his contribution to funds being raised for the entertainment of veterans of the 91st division, who are to assemble in the city of Los Angeles for their second annual reunion on September 24 and 25.

"With a standing army of but 150,000, a reserve which can be instantly assembled in case of trouble is absolutely necessary," he told F. P. Doherty, now a practicing attorney but once a major in the 361st infantry. "The people of the Pacific coast should be particularly interested in the building up of such a reserve because of their isolation. With men of a fighting unit, particularly of a unit which made the record the 91st did in the Argonne and in Belgium, assembling every year and keeping in touch with each other through their various local associations there need be no fear but what practically a entire division could be formed from men with experience in the field if the Pacific coast were threatened."

Names and addresses of every veteran attending the reunion will be registered and the list of nearly 10,000 obtained at last year's gathering at San Francisco revised, and additions made to it.

Battle Colors Coming

Colors and standards of the 362nd infantry and the 348th field artillery will be sent to the reunion of the 91st division to be held at Los Angeles, September 24 and 25, according to word received by reunion headquarters from Charles L. Sheridan, adjutant general of Montana.

BURGLARS STEAL JAM

Mrs. Carr, 1327 South Central avenue, reported to the police that her cellar was broken into about 2 a. m. yesterday and two dozen quarts of blackberry, raspberry and strawberry jam. Mrs. Carr said she heard two men talking in subdued tones just outside her window as she supposed, about that time, but thought they were passing by on the sidewalk.

SNOW AT BIG BEAR

Glendale vacationists at Big Bear were treated to an August snowstorm Saturday, according to reports from there yesterday. Though the mercury climbed to 103 in the shade down in the valley, half an inch of "the beautiful" fell in the mountains around the lake. This is claimed to be Big Bear's first August snowstorm.

BE CALM OLD TOP!

A Press reporter had his breath fairly taken away as he entered Jack Lucas' real estate office one morning, Jack exclaiming defiantly, "I'm just going to quit advertising in the Press." "Why, wha—what's the matter," was the faltering quiry. "Well," was the reply, "I advertised a bunch of stuff for sale a day or two ago, and since then my telephone bell has been ringing about every five minutes by people calling in answer to that advertisement, and I was kept up till 10 last night, closing one of the several deals resulting from that one ad." This is a faithful report of an actual occurence. Press want ads do certainly bring results.

GLENDALE RED CROSS GETS LETTER FROM PACIFIC DIVISION

The following communication from the Pacific division, American Red Cross, has just been received by the chairman of the Glendale Red Cross chapter, in reply to a letter of inquiry written by her:

"My Dear Mrs. Bartlett:

"It is not the plan of the Clean-up Squad to visit Los Angeles at this time. Los Angeles has a complete Veterans' Bureau unit—by that I mean Department of Public Health Service, Federal Board for Vocational Education, and Bureau of War Risk Insurance, which unit is equipped to serve at any time men whose cases originate in or near Los Angeles.

"Please suggest to ex-service men who reside in Glendale that by immediately communicating with Dr. E. L. Wemple, supervisor in charge of the Veterans' Bureau, Wilcox building, Los Angeles, their claims for compensation, training, etc., they will be given precedence, just as the cases of those men in other localities who have been able to make contact with the Clean-up Squad, are being considered.

"It would be most inconvenient, and expensive as well, for Glendale men to travel all the way to Riverside or San Diego.

"Very truly,
"EGIE M. ASHMAN, Director,
"Service Claims and Information, Post-War Services."

From a circular of infomation received through the Pacific division, the following is gleaned:

(a)—All men and women honorably discharged having a disability of 10 per cent or more, resulting from service and in the line of duty, are entitled to compensation from the Bureau of War Risk Insurance.

(b)—All honorably discharged men and women having a disability incurred in the service or aggravated by which constitutes a vocational handicap, are entitled to training under the jurisdiction of the Federal Board for Vocational Education. Applications for Federal Board training must be filed prior to December 10, 1922.

(c)—If medical treatment or hospitalization is necessary for sickness or injury resulting from service, it will be provided by the Public Health Service.

Glendale Ford Agency Grows With The City

Expansion has been the keynote of many of Los Angeles Ford dealers during the past six or seven months. The reason for their expansion can be attributed to the increased sales of Ford cars which necessitated larger floor space to take care of more Ford owners.

The Jesse E. Smith Ford Agency of Glendale have recently moved into their new location at 115-125 West Colorado boulevard, which has a building floor space of some 15,000 square feet.

Their repair shop is said to be the finest in the San Fernando Valley. It can take care of 15 overhaul jobs and 30 or 40 minor repairing jobs at the same time. All machinery which pertains to speedy and efficient repair work has been installed.

The Jesse E. Smith Ford agency was established in 1915 and during the first year sold in the neighborhood of 200 cars. It is estimated that the year 1921 will see 750 new cars sold.

"Glendale has grown by leaps and bounds in the past several years," says Mr. Jesse E. Smith, "and it is but natural that our sales should show a proportionate increase along with a greater population. However, we do attribute the fact that our customers come back time after time for new cars and to our service with a personal touch, which we believe is hard to improve upon.

"Business has been excellent during the so-called depression period for we have not felt any let-up in sales at all. If this is the depression period, then when real business comes along we will have to double the size of our building again," concluded Mr. Smith.

WHERE AM I AT?

This question is being asked by some of our citizens.

W. H. La Fountain does not know just "where he is at" these days. He has supposed for several years past that he was living at 203 West Acacia avenue, but when he took out permits this morning for the erection of three small bungalows on the front of his lot he found that his number was 129.

Joe Griffin is in the same category, for he has been masquerading under the number 205 when it should have been 133.

ROBERT BUNGAY WINS

Robert H. Bungay, 123 West Lomita avenue, premier trapshooter of the Pacific coast, won new honors yesterday at the Vernon Gun Club's August tournament. He was expected to atend the Grand American handicap shoot last week, in the east, but chose to remain at home and shoot with his fellow clubmen. He came out winner in the registered club shoot, breaking 97 targets out of 100; he also won second place in the special eevnt by breaking 98 targets.

GROCERY STORE ROBBED

A. E. Bradshaw's grocery store at 1405 South San Fernando road was broken into last night, but all that was missing when a careful check was made was $1.50 in pennies.

HERE IN GLENDALE

Saturday's record of moves was not very extensive, only the following being indicated by orders for meter changes at the public service department: R. A. Cresswell, 312 East Windsor to Los Angeles; Fred Wheltcher, 458 West Elk to 440 Ivy; A. Goebel, 711½ Orange Grove to 1118 Glendale boulevard; G. W. Kaiser, 412 West Harvard to Los Angeles; Frank Campbell, 1246 East California to La Verne; A. A. Jenkins, 503½ Vine to 420 West Elk; B. F. Shepherd, 1100 North Columbus to 1566 Lorraine street; J. F. Swisher, from 336 North Orange; E. W. Stromberg, from 708 Howard; W. A. Bullard, from 208 South Brand; Doc Saunders, to 537 East Palmer.

Light meters for new houses were ordered by M. G. Larkins, 1014 Orange Grove; C. E. Mayo, 911 North Columbus; G. W. Rich, 510 Oak; R. A. Miller, 916 Orange Grove.

SUNDAY AUTO CRASHES

There were several auto accidents in Glendale yesterday, but no one was injured, and in only two of them was any damage done to the cars.

G. Lyons, 932 South Olive street, claims that E. Gibbs, 330 South Flower street, both Los Angeles, cut the corner at Acacia and Central, bumping into his car and doing some damage to both. R. L. Weeks, of Hollywood, reported that he bumped a car moving south at a considerable speed on Central avenue, when he approached the crossing on Los Feliz road from the west, injuring his radiator and front spring and mussing up the right rear corner of the other fellow's car.

"WITNESS STAND" IS SERMON SUBJECT YESTERDAY

Rve. Louis Tinning Speaks on "Ye Are My Witnesses of These Things"

In the absence of the pastor of the Presbyterian Church on vacation the assistant pastor, Rev. Louis Tinning, preached Sunday morning, using as his text, "Ye are my witnesses of these things." (Luke 24:48).

This is suggestive of the court-room, and intended so to be. In a room in Jerusalem the disciples were gathered; they had just been told that their crucified Lord had risen from death, but they had not yet been able to believe it. Then Jesus himself stood among them. Having rebuked their unbelief he told them why it was so very necessary for them to know of his resurrection: "Ye are my witnesses of these things." This was the message then and ever since. God having witnesses to choose—chose men, plain men, in all things such as we. These men had witnessed all that had occurred. But Christ was in a sense still on trial after his resurrection, and still is to this day; the witnesses still were needed and are yet. You who have known him, his resurrection, his power, you are his witnesses.

Some witnesses are very valuable, some mediocre, some useless. Our testimony, our lives, should be convincing. There is negative, and there is positive testimony. You are not to be a stumbling block in the way of others. People read the word that is spoken in you. And we are not to be exclusive; we must mingle. Our witness must not be mere hearsay: what is needed is what we ourselves really know.

What is the purpose of this witness-bearing? We are to be a protest against sin. The Christian life in all its atmosphere should be so previous and sweet as to rebuke sin. Bear witness by being loyal to Christ, to his church, to your Christian fellows, by being earnest for the salvation of all men. Let your testimony be so clear that there can be no misunderstanding it.

The great Louis Agassiz when a boy in Switzerland, was once sent by his mother with his younger brother across the ice of the frozen Lake Geneva. The mother watching saw with fright a crack in the ice before them. She thought Louis would cross it safely and the younger one following would fall in. But no, Louis threw himself full length across the crack and the little brother crawled across him as a bridge. This is the way in witness-bearing. Either you will lead your fellow man to destruction or you will be to him a bridge of safety. You ought to be a bridge—you will be if

BE PRETTY! TURN GRAY HAIR DARK

Try Grandmother's Old Favorite Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, at a small cost.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy and attractive.

CENTRAL EUROPE RISING TO STABILITY SAYS WORKER

After Five Months' Survey, Mingling With All Classes of People, Proof Is Obtained That Friendship of Nations Is Won by America's Aid

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—J. H. Wallis, Dubuque, Ia., American Relief Administration representative who has returned after five months' survey of the Hoover organization's feeding operation in Central and Eastern Europe, expressed optimism today concerning the economic and political future of the nations who owe their existence largely to the generosity of the American people who contributed $29,000,000 during the European Relief Council drive.

"In general, the aspect today of Central Europe and the Baltic is one of recovery," he said. "The recovery is, perhaps, not as rapid as it might have been if men and nations had been ideally wise, but it is substantial and promising. Although in some places there are distressing conditions, it is entirely a mistake to suppose that Europe is sinking. The contrary is true. Europe is rising.

"There are still some international wrangles, as Upper Silesia and the Polish-Lithuanian dispute about Vilna; Austria, not yet adjusted to her new place in the world-order, is still suffering business stagnation. But economic conditions are improving, the economic barriers between States are being broken down by commercial treaties, the railway systems are getting back to normality. Order has been restored everywhere. The responsible authorities in all these countries are respected.

Report is Based on Mingling With All Classes of People

"My investigations in Central Europe and the Baltic took me into Austria, Hungary, Czecho-Slovakia, Germany, Poland, Lithuania, Latvia and Esthenia. In all of these countries I had the privilege of talking with the principal Government officials, including Chancellor Wirth, of Germany, Premier Wilos, of Poland, President Masaryk, of Czecho-Slovakia; President Hainisch, of Austria, Finance Minitser Hegedus, of Hungary, and the leading men of the Baltic republics. I also made it a point to get the views of the most prominent bankers and business men of the various countries. Beyond that, I have seen labor leaders, presidents of universities, workmen, peasants, refugees.

"I made it a point to enter the homes of the poorest people in the cities and the huts of the most needy peasants in order to get the worst of the picture as well as the surface view. It is true that there is still a great deal of hardship and cruel poverty. I saw life in it most distressing forms in Vienna, in Budapest, in Warsaw, in Cracow, in Vilna.

"I have seen people living in old dugouts along the old Russo-German line. In the eastern section of Poland, in the belt which the Poles secured by the treaty of Riva, I have seen peasants who had been driven into Russian retreat returned to find their primitive log huts gone or in a state of ruin. They are making a desperate effort to live, perhaps two or three families crammed into a shack that looked like a ruined barn, without work animals, milk cows, proper agricultural implements.

Grass Soup Sustains Life; U. S. Rescues 10,000,000 Babies

"The principal element of food which they were able to get themselves when I was there was a grass from which they made a deadly-looking soup. I was told their condition was improved then because the grass was longer. But even these people, and more especially their children, were reached by the American Relief Administration.

Sovereign Importance of Child is Impressed Upon Countries.

"The sovereign importance of the child has been impressed upon those countires by the American Relief operations with such force that the children of many European countries are assured, forever, better care and more beneficent rearing than has ever been the case in the past or would ever have been the case in the future. Effective methods of child-help have been taught. Out of this work, in practically all the countries in which it has been conducted, are being created permanent organizations, usually affiliated with the Government for child-welfare work.

"The people of some of the countries served have been taught organization, cooperation, self-reliance, business methods. In every country aiding effects—the vitally important effects—or the vast feeding operations of the American Relief Administration. The first thought is, naturally, that millions of children have been saved from death, disease or permanent weakness by the great operation, which covered thirteen countries, fed at different times probably 10,000,000 children, roughly, a billion and a half meals and expended over a hundred million dollars. But in saving these children, there have been other effects of far reaching importance, economically and politically. Among these collateral effects may be mentioned the following:

"The spread of Bolshevism in Central Europe and the Baltic, the tendency to political violence, anarchy and chaos, have been effectively checked in a very large measure by the feeding operations of the American Relief Administration.

ed by the A. R. A. a big native organization has been built up to do the work under American supervision. About 100,000 people are included in all these organizations. These people have learned qualities which will be not only valuable to themselves but national assets. It may be added, too, that the comprehensive, impartial distribution of relief to people of all races and creeds has taught tolerance and brotherhood, has brought hostile classes and races and creeds together for the common good.

"Because of the vast quantities of food provided for the children there has been more food for the adult population, although the children have been served first. The general health of this generation and those to follow has been benefitted. The feeding of unfortunate members of the intellectual class, of students, of professors—a branch of the work—has sustained, through a difficult period, the mental strength and capacity of the very nations which will need those qualities the most.

Friendship of Nations is Won by American Feeding Operations

"The friendship of the people of the countries served by the American Relief Administration for the United States has been securely won by the feeding operations. There is a genuine and sincere gratitude to the American people for their great act of human brotherhood. The children will not forget.

"The child-feeding operation, has been a great impetus to the scientific study of child-nutrition, especially in Austria. If America will take advantage of the lessons learned, if America, having added the children of so many countries, will turn her attention more earnetsly and effectively to her own children, making use of the knowledge acquired in Europe through American generosity, the cost of the whole relief operation will be a trifle compared to the benefits America herself will derive.

"The American Relief Administration has been unholding democracy in Europe. The new democracies resulting from the war—Poland, Austria, Czecho-Slovakia, Hungary, Germany, Esthonia, Latvia, Lithuania, Finland—all threatened with force of disintegration some more, some less, all faced with the hunger that breeds political violence, revolution, chaos—have been stabilized, strengthened and very measureably made secure by the feeding operations. The chief officials in some countries told me with perfect frankness that the American feeding had been their political salvation and in all countries even the most cautious and guarded officials admitted it was a very material aid. Private citizens were more downright positive. 'The American feeding saved us from Bolshevism,' was their general view."

PANIC IN TUJUNGA

J. R. Ervey, of the Sewing Machine Exchange, is chuckling over an incident that happened in Tujunga yesterday while he was up there on business.

A rather unsophisticated agent of a Los Angeles newspaper which is offering a kitchen set as a premium to new subscribers, was canvassing the little town. Not wishing to be encumbered with the full set of articles offered, he carried, as a sample, only a murderous looking cleaver.

With this in his hand and an ingratiating smile, he knocked at the door of a prosperous looking house.

The lady of the house opened the door and, beholding a man with a cleaver in his hand, uttered a scream and slammed the door in his face. Then she rushed through the house, out the back door and made a record run to the nearest neighbors, looking backward to see if the wielder of the cleaver was pursuing her.

At the neighbor's home she was informed that the alleged would-be murderer was only an innocent young man who had just been there trying to give away a cleaver and other articles comprising a "kitchen set" as a reward for reading a newspaper.

ual solicitor in investigating, except in a general way, the reliability of every automobile driver, who seeks to take out insurance, would bring the overhead expense of the company up to a point which would raise the insurance rates to the same figure at which they were before such an elaborate investigation was attempted.

Character Figures in Rate

The action taken by the National Chamber of Commerce, according to eastern dispatches, was taken in an effort to secure a nation-wide inquiry by insurance companies into a man's character before writing his policy, and also because of the disagreement with the grouping of cars according to their mechanical construction.

The inter-insurance exchange of the Automobile Club of Southern California, which is the criterion for cooperative insurance throughout America, characterizes any stand taken for an investigation into an individual's personal habits as impractical for the average insurance company at this time because of the enormous expense involved in making personal investigations. Any insurance solicitor, it is pointed out, would make very little money if he had to spend time investigating the personal character of each one of his "prospects."

Community Hazards

"The "hazard" which exists in any community is taken into consideration by the insurance company. That is, the amount of recklessness, the number of accidents and various considerations which go to make up any element adverse to the insurance company. In Southern California, however, motorists are fortunate in having at hand the insurance department of the automobile club, which actually does undertake to represent the individual policy-holder, as well as his own welfare, thus having a dual personality, whereas ordinary stock insurance companies have only one personality, inasmuch as they represent only their company interests and not the personal interests of the policy-holder.

Up to Public

It is up to the public to reduce the risk or hazard in Southern California, says the automobile club. With fewer accidents, fewer fires, fewer stolen cars, there will be a greater chance of lower insurance rates in this section in the future.

CHIROPRACTORS ORGANIZE

Five hundred chiropractors have organized a drive for 100,000 signatures needed to place the chiropractic bill on the ballot at the election in November, 1922.

The drive will start August 30. This is the first time in the history of the school that the chiropractors have united to back one bill. It calls for a separate board of examiners to license their practice.

WHY THE DELAY?

The Pacific Electric has two very handsome abutments and two equally fine appearing piers, all of glistening concrete, in the bed of the Verdugo wash, between the two concrete bridges that carry Brand boulevard's roadways across the historic channel, and these sightly monuments have stood there since last winter, awaiting the laying of steel beams to carry the track across from bank to bank. A completed bridge was promised by the Pacific Electric away last spring, then the excuse was made that steel was hard to get, and the city authorities were sounded out as to the substitution of a wooden bridge, for one of steel, to hasten completion. But the suggestion was coldly received, as the city had nothing to gain in the replacing of a wooden trestle by a wooden bridge. Steel was finally promised for a completed bridge in September, and it is hoped that the city will gently but firmly insist that this promise be kept.

PHYSICIANS BAFFLED BY THROAT DISEASE

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—A strange illness, resembling blood poisoning, has caused the death of three children of a Bronx policeman's family and nonplussed the medical profession. Physician at Fordham Hospital are mystified by the malady.

James Lennox, five years old, was taken sick about two weeks ago and died a week later. The outstanding symtom of his ailment was a sore throat, which caused him great suffering before death.

The body of James was buried Sunday, and on the same day a sister, Katherine, ten years old, became ill with the same symptoms and was removed to the hospital. She died the next day. Arrangements were being made for her burial Thursday, when her brother, nine years old, was stricken, and he died.

Dr. Reigelmann, Medical Examiner of the Bronx, who reported the three deaths, said the physicians at the hospital had found traces of mushroom poisoning, but he has learned, he said, that the children had not eaten mushrooms before they became ill. The Medical Examiner seemed to think that the children, who were accustomed to play in the woods near their home, might have been poisoned by eating wild berries of some kind.

The stomach contents of Katherine and Andrew, Dr. Reigelmann said, have been sent to Dr. A. O. Kettler, at the City Laboratory, for analysis.

It was learned that several other children living in the vicinity of the Lennox home have been suffering from minor throat troubles.

INTEREST RECEIPTS ON FUNDS INCREASE

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 29.—All records on interest collections on state deposits were shattered last month when State Treasurer Friend W. Richardson, took in $48,864.50.

Interest collections on the same average are now nearly twice as much as they were previous to Richardson's administration, and the increase in earnings for the state exceed $200,000.00 a year.

The state has on deposit in banks, subject to call at any time and secured by first class bonds, more than fifteen million dollars. The interest rate when Richardson took office averaged slightly more than 2 per cent, while now the rate runs from 3½ to 4½ per cent, with most of the money at 4 per cent. By careful attention to business, the rate has been steadily increased with a resulting increase in revenue for the state.

EXIDE SERVICE ON NEW YORK LAKES

The bell buoy, the solemn tolling of which has been the subject of many a melancholy story in verse, has been much improved upon. It now bears the well-known mark of modern efficiency—the electric light.

These buoys are used in some of the inland waterways, according to the local Exide Service station, to guide barges and two-boats over the dangerous portions of the channels.

The New York State Department of Public Works has worked out a complete system of buoy lighting in the barge canal through Seneca and Cayuga Lakes. Seneca Lake is deep enough for barges over its entire surface but there is a shallow area at the north end of Cayuga Lake.

The electric light buoys are used to mark points of safe passage over these shallow areas. Each buoy is equipped with lamps and mechanism for causing intermittent flashing of the lights and an Exide battery to supply the current. The Exides are recharged eevry two weeks.

Caution Pays In Lower Auto Insurance Rates

There will be no lower automobile insurance rates for motorists of Southern California in the near future, despite the recent action taken by the National Automotive Chamber of Commerce in severing its connections with the National Board of Automobile Underwriters, according to a detailed announcement by officials of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

It is up to the public to first reduce the risk induced by reckless driving, careless garage construction and activity of automobile thieves, before insurance rates in this section, it is pointed out.

Cautious Driver Penalized

Why does not the cautious driver get a lower insurance rate on his car than one who is known by the insurance company to be reckless?

Because of the cost, both to the insurance company and to the individ-

PRICE DISLOCATION

The business depression through which this country is just just emerging is in many respects without parallel in history. We have had serious depressions in business before, but they have been accounted for by financial panics, crop failures and economic blockades incident to war. The United States today is financially sound, it is the creditor nation of the world, it has nearly all the gold on this planet, a bountiful food supply, extensive productive machinery and a man power greater than ever before.

Why, then, are steel mills and coal mines idle? Why is there an army of unemployed? The current issue of "American at Work," an industrial magazine, gives a series of charts and graphs showing the trend of prices of numerous essential commodities from 1913 to the present time. By pointing out some of the variations in prices, the answer to the above question may be found.

To briefly summarize the figures referred to, one finds that brick, cement, pig iron and coal are from 100 to nearly 200 per cent higher than in 1913. It may also be added that transportation rates and wages for skilled labor are much higher. On the other hand, wheat is but little higher, while cotton, pork and cattle, and zinc and copper are lower than in 1913. Corn is about the same and also lumber, steel and lead.

The purpose of these figures is not to set forth the argument that the prices of 1913 are "normal," whatever normal may mean, or that prices must inevitably return to that basis. The essential thing is to note the wide variation of prices of different commodities. For the past nine months prices have been either sagging or coming down on the run. But the declines have not been general or else there would have been no business annoyances and embarrassments. The substance of it is, prices have been dislocated.

The result is obvious. Industry becomes paralyzed when there is no buyer's market, and there cannot be a buyer's market unless people are at work and the wheels of the factories turning. The problem is how to start the wheels going. The plain thing to do is to bring about the adjustment between all prices. Incidentally, the year 1913 is chosen as a basic year, not because there was anything magic about that year, but the prices of 1913 represented prevailing prices when there was, for the most part, a fine adjustment between all pricse and the nation was at work full blast.

There is no cause for gloom if business men and workers will only grasp the fundamentals of the present economic situation. Those business concerns, large or small, which are today on the best footing are those which took their losses early and re-established, so far as possible, a proper relation between their expenses and incomes. It should be remembered that the nation's credit is sound, and every effort possible should be made to furnish credit to concerns which must necessarily lose money to carry through the period of price readjustment. Some prices will probably come up while many others will come down. Prosperity does not mean low wages and low prices, any more than it means high wages and high prices. It means the proper adjustment of prices in relation to other prices.

MOTOR TRUCKS AND HIGHWAY UPKEEP

Discussing the problem of the motor truck and the upkeep of highways, as well as truck and rail competition, the Portland Telegram in a recent issue says in part:

"This competition is complained of as unfair to the railroads, because the motor trucks run on roads built and maintained by tax levy upon the public, while railway roadbeds and rails must be built and maintained by the roads themselves. To equalize this to some extent a heavier tax on trucks is proposed.

"Figures showing what part of the highway expenditures are paid by taxes on trucks are not available for all states, but the proportion as shown is generally small, not usually exceeding one-tenth and running as low as half that figure. And yet it is the motor truck, more than all other vehicles combined, which destroys paved road values.

"A heavy truck running at high speed will spoil more pavement in one trip than all the pleasure cars of the entire month. For this reason trucks should pay a heavier tax than any other vehicle. Some Eastern states are contemplating taxing unreasonably heavy trucks off the highways with a tax of $100 per ton for every truck of five tons or more.

"No tax or fine should be levied on motor trucks with a view to protecting the railroads from their competitors. But building highways on auto taxes may equitably be done, and it is being successfully done in many of the state. Minnesota has authorized the expenditure of $100,000,000 on its system of state roads, the entire amount to be paid by taxes on motor-driven vehicles. These roads will be built with concrete bases to withstand truck traffic, and doubtless trucks will be compelled to pay taxes in proportion to their destruction of the roadbed."

Gross materialism. The creed of any hateful competitor who appears to be getting along better than you are.

In the matter of trimming innocent bystanders, the dogs of war have very little on the hogs of peace.

NEW BILL TAKES STING FROM IMMIGRANTS' LIFE

By HARRY WARD,
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—The necessity for turning back hundreds of immigrants arriving at American ports who have sold their homes in the lands of their birth and spent their last pennies for passage to the "land of opportunity" will be obviated by the passage of Representative Albert Johnson's bill now before Congress, Secretary of Labor Davis pointed out today. Many of the immigrants now arriving in the United States are afflicted with dangerous and loathsome contagious disease, are feebleminded mentally or physically defective, or are in such circumstances that to admit them would be to fill our institutions with public charges.

The new measure provides for the weeding out of these inadmissible aliens before they leave their home countries through selection by representatives of the United States Government residing at the ports of embarkation. Two special agents will be stationed at each of the principal ports—one a member of the Public Health Service and the other an experienced immigrant inspector.

Consuls Would Act

The selection of immigrants will operate through the use of the vise system, which requires the immigrant to procure from his Government a passport, which must be presented to an American consular officer for vise before he can embark for the United States. This vise will be granted only after inspection by the immigrant and public health inspectors, as contemplated by the Johnson measure.

"Perhaps it will cost a little more than the present hit-or-miss method of vising passports by American concular officers," said Secretary Davis. "The present passport vise of $10, however, ought to cover the cost of this service, and, much as the revenue is needed by the Government, it is hardly fair that this tax of $10 be imposed upon aliens in their own countries in addition to the head tax which they must pay upon admission to the country, without giving something in return. In the interest of humanity Congress ought not to quibble at the slightly larger appropriation necessary, if it is necessary, for a selected immigration will not require the same attention at the port of debarkation as the motley crowds now handled, for, knowing the heartaches now occasioned at our ports, the consciences of the American public would be easier."

Under the Act of February 23, 1917, illiterates with a few exceptions, are not permitted entrance into the United States. In some cases this law works peculiar hardship, as in the case of young women from the devastated sections of Europe. It is not infrequently that an illiterate young lady will arrive at Ellis Island after monthes of suffering. In some instances the girl is all that is left of a family which has fled, after the burning of their home, and has nothing in the world to live for except for the opportunity which she may find in the United States. She has been driven about during the revolutions from country to country; has had to choose between becoming a member of a Turkish harem or probable death, has chosen the latter and later escaped. No inspector could resist the appeals of these immigrants.

Sand Man Stories

BUNNY RABBIT GOES HIKING

CHAPTER III

When the animal came near enough for Bunny to talk to he asked his name and why he was frightened.

The animal replied, "My name is Mr. Rat and I just saw a large cat crawling near the lumber pile. If we are not careful he will get us both."

Bunny had never had any experience with cats, and hated to show his ignorance, but wondered what the cat would do with them if he did catch them.

Since Mr. Rat was so frightened it must be something awful.

Mr. Rat darted from the lumber pile and Bunny peeked out just in time to see a large animal with black fur pounce upon Mr. Rat, which made him do the most squealing Bunny had ever heard. This must be the cat Mr. Rat had spoken of.

All the experiences Bunny had had since leaving home made him wish many times he had never started to see the World.

However, since he could not find his way home he hardly knew what to do.

He thought it would be best to keep very quiet and hide in the lumber pile.

Just as he was settling down he heard a fearful noise, and through the opening under the lumber pile he saw the same black cat which had pounced on Mr. Rat and another cat also.

Both seemed very angry.

Poor Bunny had never heard such noises, and shook with fear. He made up his mind that the two cats were fighting.

The cats' quarrel grew louder and louder. They came closer to where Bunny was hiding and he could hear several thumps.

Finally Bunny was glad to see the black cat running away and the other cat was chasing him. He hoped there would be no other alarm to disturb him, as it had been a long time since he had slept and he was so sleepy.

At last he fell asleep and had the best dream.

(To be continued.)

Urgent Plea for Aid.

Eddie was visiting in the country, and some older children, thinking to entertain him, put him on the back of a small pony called Billy. The pony started off at a good pace around the lot, frightening the little visitor, who wasn't used to riding. Holding tight as he could to the pony, he shrieked out to the older ones: "Oh, come quick and help me let loose to Billy!"

"Mind" and "Body."

An English writer, Prof. L. T. Hobhouse, remarks that the "mind" of a nation is a real agency, and he suggests there is an analogy in the human body which is the result of vital processes going on in a myriad of independent cells. The body is not another cell. It is something more than all the cells that compose it.

DR. FUNK REPLIES

Reply by Dr. Funk to the question, "If the Scriptures were written by men who were divinely inspired, why do the Four Gospels differ in their narratives?"

"The ground for the objection raised in this question is one of the strongest evidences to show that the writers were not in collusion, as has sometimes been charged. Each writer seemed to pay no attention whatever to anything any one else had to say; recording only that which impressed him as being the most important to acquaint others with the character and teachings of Jesus Christ. He was concerned about nothing but the truth.

"The differences in the Bible narratives are natural, just what you would expect. No two men ever related the acts about any important event in exactly the same words and the same style. The most important thing, after all, is the fact that they all agree that Jesus lived among men, that He is divine, that He died and rose again. Moreover, so thoroughly were the prejudices of these eye-witnesses removed that they espoused His cause, and many gave their lives in defense of it. On the other hand, if these writers had expressed themselves in identically the same manner, and with precisely the same words, there would have been some reason for believing that they were in collusion, pretending to be guided by the Spirit, and, therefore, fraudulent."

Height of European Countries.

According to geographers, the average height above the sea of the different countries of Europe is as follows, stated in feet: Holland, 150; Belgium, 535; Russia, 550; Germany, 607; Great Britain, 712; Roumania, 922; Denmark (including Iceland), 1,155; France, 1,200; Scandinavia (Norway and Sweden), 1,404; Italy, 1,664; Austria, 1,698; Balkan peninsula, 1,900; Spain and Portugal, 2,296; Switzerland, 4,283. From this it would appear that the largest, Russia, is the third lowest, and that the third smallest, Switzerland, is the highest.

American Painter's Work.

It fell to the honor of Benjamin West, an American, to become the favored painter of George III. Through painting a historical subject, Agrippa Landing the Ashes of Germanicus, for the archbishop of York, West was introduced to George III, who became his steadfast patron for nearly 30 years, his commissions amounting to about $5,000 a year. He also painted a series of religious and historical works for Windsor.

SOLDIER'S WEDDING TAKES PLACE ON SUNDAY HERE

Rv. C. R. Norton, retired parson, of East Wilson avenue, this city, is a popular minister who is often called upon to tie the knot that unites two fond hearts in the bonds of matrimony.

Sunday morning at 9 o'clock he performed this service for Alice L. Libby of Los Angeles and Richard L. McGinnis, an enlisted man who is in the service at the army camp at Arcadia.

Mrs Norton had provided a wedding setting by decorating her home with China asters, and the bride made a pretty picture in a wedding gown of white silk voile and carrying a bouquet of lilies of the valley.

There were no attendants, but the parents of the bride and her cousin, Mr. Libby, of Los Angeles, were witnesses, and following the ceremony the party left for Los Angeles, where Mr. and Mrs. McGinnis will make their home with the parents of the bride until the groom's term of service expires.

Straightening Wire.

Stray pieces of copper wire have many uses, but it often is necessary to straighten out wire that has already been used. See that there are no sharp bends or kinks in the wire and straighten out by hand any such that are found. Fasten an end of the wire to some firm anchorage; grip it in the vise if need be. Loop the other end of the wire around a hammer handle or similar instrument and then pull out the length of the wire. Repeat the operation as often as necessary. If the wire is of soft copper it will stretch a little, which improves it.

Material for Paper.

Over fifty kinds of bark are now used to manufacture paper, besides banana skins, bean stalks, pea vines, coconut fiber, clover and hay, straw, fresh-water weeds, sea weeds, and over one hundred and fifty kinds of grasses.

About Sulphur.

Sulphur is one of the oldest known elements; the ancient Assyrian alchemists regarded it as the principle of combustion and termed it "brimstone," meaning literally burning stone.

Proper Home Life.

The right kind of home life means everything to every one of us. The average wife or mother should keep this truth constantly before her and resolve that her home shall be made a bright and cheerful spot. Otherwise she must expect that her family will seek outside attractions, for common sense tells us that no one will remain for any length of time in any place where he or she is uncomfortable or dissatisfied.—Exchange.

One Inch—100 Miles.

Telephone experts declare that if a person speaking over a phone holds the transmitter four inches from his mouth it is equivalent to adding about 220 miles to the line over which he is conversing, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. Carelessness in the manner of using a telephone instrument is one of transmission. The best results are obtained by allowing about half an inch to intervene between the mouth and the transmitter.

Health Comes First.

The human body is kept in health by simple living, which after all is a test of fitness for succes. Without health there can be no success, for gain of fame or gold will not profit a man who barters away his health. The wealth of the world some day will be judged by the health and happiness of mankind.—Elmer Lee, M. D., in Health Culture.

New Electric Furnaces.

The success of electric heat in Japan and varnish oven work has led to considerable investigation along the line of what might be termed low temperature heating; that is, heating with temperatures up to 600 degrees Fahrenheit. The results of these investigations have brought out numerous other applications, among which are electric core baking ovens, electric bread baking ovens, ovens for making cereals, drying woolen articles and equipment for sherardizing.

A Good Wife.

Once upon a time there was a farmer whose wife daily pumped the household supply of water up to a tank on the roof, says The Little Journal. After 20 years he installed an electric motor to do this for her. Careful calculation brought out the fact that the wife had been working that pump handle 3,650 hours at a value of half a cent per hour. She had saved him $18.75 in 20 years. What was it the preacher said about her worth being above rubies?

Toddle Top Craze Wins Bank Directors

By WEBSTER K. NOLAN,
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—This is the day of efficiency and the toddle top. This being affirmative, the burden of proof rests with the next paragraph.

A most modern efficiency expert, with a long training in scenting errors behind him and a long nose for smelling mistakes, was engaged a few days ago by one of the largest banking concerns in Manhattan.

The expert sensed there must be something wrong with the institution if it hired him. He proposed to find it. He spent hours on the company's books and inspecting the amount of waste paper in the litter baskets in pursuit of the uneconomical employe. He associated with the personnel of the bank, and then he discovered something.

Seventeen Minutes Wasted Daily

Exactly seventeen minutes are wasted every day by one-half the employes of the concern, the expert found, in the pursuit of pleasure, the lust for gambling via the toddle top. The toddle top, as you know, is a young prism on a spindle, each of the octagon's sides bearing such inscriptions as "Put one," Take two," "Put all," "Take all," etc. The idea is that you "put in" one cent, one dollar, or take out the corresponding medium of exchange.

The toddle top, as you know, is unlawful. There's a ban against it. You do, too know it.

Anyway, the efficiency expert wrote out his report. It was submitted to the board of directors of the banking concern. An executive session was called to consider the toddle top. The session continued for more than an hour. The efficiency expert tired of waiting. At the end of another half-hour the expert opened the door to the executive chamber to inquire the hour when the session would be over.

On the floor of the chamber knelt and sat the twelve directors. One of them was in the act of spinning the toddle top. It spun and stopped.

50 FLIRTS ARE FELLED BY WOMAN USING BIT OF HOSE

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—New York mashers are steering clear of Mrs. Eleanor De Hart, an attractive widow of middle age, who has added another notch to her trusty shillelah.

She told how easy it is for any woman, if she will only display a little pluck, to put mashers to rout or land them in cells. In the last five years she has vanquished about fifty of them.

Mrs. De Hart was accosted in Central Park by a man describing himself as James Zamorelli, twenty-five years old, a postoffice employe. She did not have her shillelah, which is really a piece of rubber hose about nine inches long. She uses it with telling effect on men who attempt to flirt with her.

Gave a "Mary Ann"

But she was undaunted, though without her weapon, and resorted to her wonderfully developed right arm for the knockout. Zamorelli took the count, was turned over to a policeman, and in the Night Court was sentenced to one day in the workhouse. He was spared more severe punishment because of his war record. But listen to Mrs. De Hart tell how it is done.

"It's the easiest thing in the world for a respectable woman to nab a masher. For the past five years, in fact ever since I was first insulted by a masher, I have carried what I call my shillelah—a piece of rubber hose that is just as effective as a blackjack or a nightstick. There is no danger of your killing them, but a tap with some force in it is bound to lay them low.

Women Hate Publicity

"In the past five years I have caused the arrest of about fifty mashers. Only one got away from me and only one escaped conviction. All that is required to get them is a little courage. If a woman hasn't got a shillelah, let her learn a few jiu jitsu grips—they're easy to learn. Then she need have no fear.

"The trouble is that women are too timorous. They fear to put up a fight and administer a sound whacking to the masher, or else they are afraid to shriek for a policeman. Then again, some of them shudder at the thought of going to a police station and then to court, with the attendant publicity.

"But it should be done to serve as an example to other mashers who haunt Central Park and other public places to force their attention on unprotected women."

PENDLETON IS READY FOR ITS ROUNDUP

PENDLETON, Ore., Aug. 29.—Fast relay strings, lively young steers, bucking "bronks" whose deviltries will try the mettle of the cowboy—these are some of the attractions promised for the 1921 round-up to be staged in Pendleton September 22, 23 and 24. The eevnts of track and arena give indication of surpassing those of all former years, for an array of experienced cowboys and cowgirls will compete and it is probable that many world's records will be broken.

One horse which has been secured from Idaho has thrown 21 successive riders. He will buck at the Pendleton Round-up and a spectacular ride by contenders for the bucking championship is expected. To the champion of bucking contests goes the $500 prize saddle, while to the winner of the all-round cowboy championship goes the $100 Police Gazette belt. Pauline Frederick, the famous screen star, will give each day of the wild horse race a sterling silver bit and silver mounted bridle. Miss Frederick will attend the big show.

Tom Mix, hero of a thousand screen adventures, will be here mounted on a horse provided by the Round-up Association and attired in full western regalia. Another film favorite who will attend is Bebe Daniels.

The seat sale for the show opens September 7, and already scores of orders have been received. Out-of-town orders are filled first, the Round-up Association, composed of prominent Pendleton business men who conduct the show on a non-profit basis, having established this precedent out of courtesy to its thousands of visitors.

The association regulates also the price of beds and meals, and no profiteering is tolerated. Double beds may be had at $2.50, this being the established price for accommodations. Pendleton homes are thrown open to visitors and rooms are listed so that the Round-up visitor is assured of comfortable quarters. Restaurants and hotels will make special arrangements to meet the demand for meals.

Authority Finds Suicides of Children Are Increasing; Cruel Parents Blamed

By MARGERY REX,
Written for the International News Service

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—Suicides are on the increase.

Especially among children.

Reports covering suicides for the first six months of this year show that 214 boys and 293 girls have killed themselves.

During the same period of 1920, 225 children ended their lives.

The figures come from the Save-a Life League, of which Dr. Harry March Warren is president.

The object of this league is the prevention of suicides, and its head reports that the increase in the number of self-inflicted deaths is the aftermath of war among adults and the fear of parental anger due to failure in school examinations in the case of children.

Of the many children who killed themselves in the first six months of this year Dr. Warren said:

"Many of these children leave notes in which they declare fear of examination impelled them to die.

It is not the examinations, really, but the barbarous threats of parents to inflict terrible treatment in case children don't pass. Many fathers and mothers are rough and mean to their unfortunate offspring. Some teachers are severe. Many children are in poor health and therefore weak in their studies and in resistance.

"Many parents actually persecute their children. I cannot understand how this can be. They select one particular child as the victim of their temper."

The difficulties of childhood and of that period of adolescence during which the child becomes an adult were understood very well by George Eliot, the writer, who reflected upon her own youth, the hardships of which made her contemplate suicide:

"The impenetrable puzzlements of youth! I was happier when older.

"If there is any terror of despair equal to that of adolescence it has yet to be discovered."

Napoleon Weak at 17

At the age of thirteen Lord Byrona in school at Harrow, spoke of the attractions of death. Later, in Cambridge, he kept pistols about "with which to answer some of these questions."

Napoleon said:

"What madness impels me to desire my own destruction? Since death must come, why not kill myself? Why should I endure these days when nothing I am concerned in prospers?"

This at seventeen—later he felt more sure of success.

But what of the adult's suicide? Mr. Warren says:

"The increased number of suicides is due to the aftermath of war. People wrought up during that period are relaxed now and in this let-down condition often think of death.

"During the war there were few suicides., Misery likes company, and when many persons had the same burdens they seemed lighter to bear.

"In May and June(when the world is bright and gay, and when people are outdoors and looking happy, there are many suicides. Miserable people cannot endure to contrast their lives with those of contented persons.

"November, that black, horrid month, finds few wishing to die. A general air of gloom has settled upon the world, and troubles are easier to bear.

'Tis a Common Tragedy

"The tragedy of suicides is a common one. There is no thought that comes quicker when adverse conditions pile upon us. People think: 'What's the use?'

"Would the suicides need a friend, and to quote the words of Paul—'this is the thing I do.'

"We must keep people from destroying their God-given lives. We get them when they have reached the most desperate stage of existence.

"Hope is what they need.

"Two things cause the desire to end life, a multiplicity of sorrows and losses and a great loneliness. We instil new hope, give people a 'second wind.' We show them another way out. We point out the awful risk of taking such a step.

Try to Keep Plans Secret

"When we are sick we go to a doctor; if in need of legal help to a lawyer. Why, then, when we mean to take a much greater step, do we not talk it over with some person of discretion?

"Secretiveness always marks the person who comes to me to discuss a contemplated suicide. The man or woman before me describes the troubled mental state of a 'fiend.' But they finally tell all.

"Many men write to me to get them wives, but that is impossible. These fellows say they would marry girls that were unfortunate and betrayed and not ask questions. I tell all lonesome folks to get into church social life, where they will meet people.

"In the past six months there have been a number of young men who have taken money from banks or from their firms who thought of killing themselves. Perhaps their salaries were too small to permit them to live under present conditions. Many men play the market with sad results.

"I often go to employers with erring men and ask for another chance for them. The managers usually permit the men to repay from their salaries and do not send them to jail. I always warn young men to do this and not to run away. Thus the debt is paid back, and the world is never the wiser.

Affinity Cases Multiply

"There are many affinity cases. They write or call to tell me of the wreck of life without the loved one who is somebody else's wife or husband. They tell of going over to look at the river. They consider themselves unique types of matyrs. I tell them that sort of thing is much commoner than generally believed and that lots of people have the same delusions from which they suffer.

"In later years they will look back with unbelieving minds on the tortures they suffered through such wrong ideas.

"I am not aware that we have ever lost a person. It is possible, but never have I read in the newspaper of the suicide of anyone whom we tried to save."

But many famous men of the past have despaired and thought of death and lived on to find fame and happiness in some cases.

John Hay, statesman and writer, just after his graduation from college became melancholy and wanted to die. Charles Darwin was sad before he discovered the monkey theory." Later on he thought better of it.

Lincoln, at the age of thirty-two, wrote to Stuart, his friend: "I am the most miserable man alive. I must die to do better, I cannot write more." In a note to another friend he enclosed a clipping on suicide.

HUNGRY RUSSIA IS GAY IN CITIES SAYS WOMAN

By MARGERY REX
Written for the International News Service

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—"The Soviet is abandoning the more radical features of its program," was the message brought back from Russia by Miss Louise Bryant, representative of the Interantional News Service, who has returned from that strife-torn land. Miss Bryant is the widow of John Reed, who died in Russia.

Young, extremely good-looking, with her luminous gray-blue eyes and fluffy black hair, she seems to be in good health and spirits herself and describes her experiences with a bit of humor.

To convey an idea of the way in which everyone in Russia lives she said:

"One piece of black bread, with a cup of unsweetened tea, is not a particularly good start for a day's work. The bread is probably nourishing enough, what there is of it; peasants seem to thrive on it. But it doesn't taste good. It gets terribly monotonous.

Conscious of Hunger

"Everyone is always conscious of being underfed. Thinking all the time about food is very destructive.

"And the surest sign of being undernourished is not the necessity of thinking about it, but the concrete fact that one has lost twenty pounds in a short time.

"It is possible to live on and on with little to eat. But we are a finicky people and want things palatable, as well something merely to assuage hunger.

"Life in Russia today is difficult. They have had war for six years, a blockade, a revolution, failure of crops, food shortage, and bad housing conditions.

"Outside of going to the theatre there is nothing to make for gayety any more.

"In a revolutionary state no one can flaunt possessions of any sort before others. It wouldn't be safe. If Lenine's wife went to the theatres in sables there would be a riot. But she never would. She is a woman of plain tastes.

Wore Furs Unmolested

"Still, I had a fur coat myself and had to go out at midnight to send off my stories on the wire, and no one ever molested me. It took until late to have the business of censoring the stories put through, and I never worried, for no one was ever held up in Moscow."

Miss Bryant described her travels in th eEast, up in the northern provinces of Russia, in the Caucasus and down into Turkestan, and Bokhara.

"Down there," she said, there was a revolt, too. Just a little one against feudalism.

"During the month I was there I was the only unveiled woman about. They didn't quite know what to do with me. Four men were detailed to guard me.

"At the invitation of the president, a young man of twenty-four, son of the richest man in the country, I was permitted to visit the harems.

She Sees Harem Women

"I was intensely interested in the lives of these penned-up women. They seemed like happy children. They play with the babies and sit around and string beads all day long. They are not at all discontented.

"They don't have to think or plan their lives. They haven't a care in the world.

"You know good followers of Mohammed have only four wives, because Mohammed himself had that number. But the Emir, the ruler, has ninety-six. The groups of wives in harems seem to get along very well—in fact, are good friends.

"Four men guarded me. It made me nervous to have them attend me at every step. They seemed to fear that something would surely happen to an unveiled woman.

"They used to walk up and down outside my door. When I wanted to wash my hands they would bring in a fancy enamelled pitcher with a long, thin spout and pour water over my hands. That was pretty unsatisfactory and very different from Russia, for no matter what anyone tries to say about the Russians they can't truthfully say they don't bathe. They are a clean people."

Silk Robes Are Cheap

Miss Bryant showed me some gorgeous native costumes which she brought back from Turkestan and Bokhara. Like enormous coats, the heavy silk garments of dazzling hues were lined with oddly-printed stuffs. They appeared to be extensive affairs.

"One cost one dollar and a half of our money, the other two dollars," Miss Bryant said, to my great surprise. "Of course, that is thousands of rubles in Eastern money.

"Talk of restoring a monarchy in Russia is absurd. That will never happen. The Soviet is rapidly abandoning its radical program. It must, to be practical."

GOVERNMENT EXPERTS COMING TO FESTIVAL

INDIO, Aug. 29.— Information has been received here, that it is the intention of the U. S. Department of Agriculture to attend the Coachella Valley Festival of Dates, which will be held October 21-23, practically in body.

It is expected that 18 or 20 officials and experts will be in the party. Also there will be several carloads of exhibition material which has been collected from all parts of the world. Professor S. C. Mason, who is now in Egypt, reports that he is having phenominal success in collecting exhibits from every section that he has visited.

The Department of Agriculture is taking a keen interest in the Festival, probably because dates is the most striking success, that it has had in the development of new industries.

Fair Play Imperative.

"Business is business" is a motto all workers should keep before them. They should demand their rights, but should remember that those in authority have rights also, and are entitled to fair, honest treatment from the people they employ. Therefore, one must learn to be punctual, non-talkative and kindly to their associates. The employee who swerves from this code is not playing fair with employer and certainly should keep silent on the question of equal rights.—Exchange.

Burmese Marriages.

A curious idea among the Burmese is that people born on the same day of the week must not marry. Hence each girls carries a record of her birthday in her name, each day having a letter belonging to it, and all children are called by a name that begins with that letter.

Pleasures Coming Fast.

Merle was fond of bananas. When his father took him into his mother's room to see the new brother that had arrived the night before the child was given a banana as he left the door. "Gee," he cried delightedly; "a new brother and a banana, both the same day!"

At a Very Early Date.

An early English visitor to Boston recorded that "you no sooner enter a tapphouse than you find a constable at your elbow who prescribes the quantity you may drink." He also mentioned getting for fourpence "a quart of cider spiced and sweetened with sugar."

EAT LESS MEAT IF BACK HURTS

Take a Glass of Salts to Flush Kidneys if Bladder Bothers You

Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well-known authority. Because the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish: clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't eating right, or if bladder bothers you, you get four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney disease.

NOTICE OF PROPOSED VACATION AND ABANDONMENT OF STREETS

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that a petition has been filed in the office of the Board of Supervisors of the County of Los Angeles, praying for the vacation and abandonment of a street or streets as hereinafter described, and that a hearing on said petition will be held by said Board of Supervisors at the office of said Board in the City of Los Angeles on September 19, 1921, at 10 o'clock a. m. The streets proposed to be vacated and abandoned as herein referred to are described as follows, to-wit:

That portion of Sherman Street, being that certain highway lying between lots 63 and 64 of the Plat of Monte Vista, as shown on map recorded in Book 6, pages 324 and 325, Miscellaneous Records of Los Angeles County, bounded as follows:

Beginning at the northeast corner of said Lot 63; thence southerly along the easterly line of said Lot 63 to a line parallel to and distant twenty feet northerly measured at right angles from the westerly prolongation of the northerly line of Lot 190, Western Empire Tract, Sheet No. 4, as shown on map recorded in Map Book 7, pages 162 and 163, records of Los Angeles County; thence easterly along said parallel line to a line parallel to and distant ten feet easterly measured at right angles from the easterly line of aforesaid Lot 63; thence northerly along said last mentioned parallel line to the easterly prolongation of the northerly line of said Lot 63; thence westerly in a direct line to the point of beginning.

By order of the Board of Supervisors of Los Angeles County, California, made August 22, 1921.

WAYNE SMITH HOME SCENE OF PRETTY SOCIAL AFFAIR

The home of Mrs. Wayne Smith, 519 North Maryland, was the setting for one of the prettiest affairs of the late summer season on Saturday last, with Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Noble J. Ripley and Mrs. Dwight W. Stephenson as hostesses.

Pink and green were the dominant color notes, and lovely groups of roses, carnations and gladiolas, all of pink, were used effectively throughout the home. The game of "bunco" was played about the living room, the first prize, a lovely vase, being awarded to Miss Christina Ferris, and the second, a shining aluminum sauce pan, to Miss Evelyn Williams. After several musical selections the guests enjoyed the spacious front porch until they were called in by one of the hostesses, when they found that a transformation had taken place. At each of the small tables, graced by its bud vase containing a single pink rose, covers were laid for four. The place cards, white with pink borders, were fastened with ribbon of the same hue to the stems of roses placed at each cover. These roses looked very much like real buds, with their long steam and green leaves, but proved to be cleverly fashioned of creep paper.

One of the guests soon discovered the "why and wherefore" of the affair. Concealed in the heart of each of the paper rosebuds was a tiny piece of tightly rolled paper, which bore the announcement that on September 29 Miss Mary West Logan will become the bride of Mr. Marshall Pearson. After this important news had been duly and gaily discussed, dainty refreshments were served. These were also in pink and green, from the ice cream in the form of full-blown roses, to the little pink and green candies. While at the table the guest of honor was presented with a beautiful bride's book by the hostesses. The guests departed after showering more good wishes upon the happy bride-to-be.

Miss Logan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Logan, of Park avenue, is one of the most popular members of Glendale's younger set, and she has many, many friends who are interested in her approaching marriage. Her fiance, Mr. Pearson, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Pearson of this city, is also well known and well liked.

Those who were invited to enjoy Saturday's affair were the guest of honor, Miss Mary Logan, Mrs. John A. Logan, Mrs. Guy Pearson, and the Misses Harriet Barnes, Elaine Hudson, Evelyn Williams, Pearl Pollock, Irene Rich, Dorothy Vredenberg, Helen Vredenberg, Helen Kapus, Dorothy Haig, Eva Green, Edith Haginan, Hester Nelson, Beth Nelson, Lillian Layne, Marion Pearson, Clara Pearson, Christina Ferris, Lois Webb, Lena Ashton, Ila Mae McClanimy, Mildred Svenson, Gladys Gonder, Alice Grey Beach, Jane Snyder, Mrs. Leola Breshnaham, and Mrs. Grace Burns.

STORK VISITS BIGGS HOME

Mr. and Mrs. L. I. Biggs of 236 South Cedar street are the proud parents of a baby boy born to them Friday night at the Glendale Sanitarium. Mother and baby are doing fine.

GILLETTE JUNIOR ARRIVES

Sunday night the stork visited the Glendale Sanitarium and left Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Gillette of 816 East Lomita avenue a bouncing baby boy. From all reports everybody is happy and mother and son are getting along fine.

BABY GIRL BORN

Mr. and Mrs. Seidengleng of 426 Burchett street are rejoicing over the birth on Saturday of a baby girl. The little one arrived Saturday evening at the Glendale Sanitarium and, from all reports, both mother and babe are doing nicely.

NEW STORE FRONT

J. E. Peters took out a permit this morning for remodeling his store front at 121 North Brand, which room will be vacated by Coker & Taylor. Art Dibbern is to open an up-to-date jewelry store there about September 1.

Doves Not Always Peaceful.

In spite of the fact that the dove is the emblem of peace, a couple of male birds of this deceitful species can give a very good account of themselves in the fight. The weapons they employ are their wings, which they use with terrific force.

St. Peter's Took Century to Build.

Over a century elapsed between the day the plans for St. Peter's church at Rome were submitted and the day of the consecration of the magnificent structure. Consequently, no one man can claim full credit for its erection, though the Italian architect Bramante deserves the lion's share, for he made the original design under orders from Pope Julius II, about 1503. In 1506 the Pontiff laid the first stone.

"PERSIAN GARDEN" TO BE GIVEN IN MAGIC SETTING

For several days rumors have been circulating about a big affair to take place in Verdugo Woodlands under the auspices of the music section of the Tuesday Afternoon Club, which would bring Glendale very much before the footlights of Southern California. The project has now reached a stage where the facts concerning it can be definitely announced, and they have been secured from Mrs. C. A. Parker, who has been asked by Mrs. C. L. Marlenee, curator of the section, to head the committee of arrangements. When approached in regard to the matter, Mrs. Parker said:

"Glendale, not to be outdone by her sister cities, is to have an outdoor festival Saturday, September 17, in beautiful Verdugo Woodlands, when the "Persian Gardens" will be sung and acted by an all-star cast, under the direction of William G. Stuart, manager and director of the California Opera Company.

"Mr. Stuart has dramatized this beautiful cycle, the words of which are taken from the famous Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam, and have been set to music by Liza Lehmann.

"The performance of this fine work will be under the auspices of the music section of the Tuesday Afternoon Club, the proceeds to go toward the proposed new club house fund.

"S. P. Newport has donated the grounds in the Verdugo Woodlands, which make an ideal spot for such a performance, being a natural amphitheatre. It may mean a place for many such entertainments and much to Glendale.

"Mr. Stuart brings splendid soloists, a fine chorus, an orchestra and dancers. Every Glendalian should bear the date in mind and make no engagement which will prevent attendance on this beautiful pageant and musical festival."

PICNIC OF SONS AND DAUGHTERS OF VETS

Daughters and Sons of Veterans are to have a jolly afternoon at Brookside Park tomorrow. All members of the camp and tent affiliated with N. P. Banks Post and their invited guests, will be eligible. The supper, which will be a great spread, will be served about 6:30 p. m.

Mrs. I. L. Bullock, 517 West Park avenue, is spending a vacation at Little Bear lake.

Weary World for the Pup.

Russell, four, was delighted when his grandma gave him a puppy for his birthday, so we were rather surprised a couple of days later when he announced that he was going to send "Daisy" back home again to grandma. I said, "Why, Russell, I thought you liked your little puppy." He said, "I do like her, mamma, but she's not happy. She hasn't smiled since she came."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Words Frequently Misspelled.

Note from the Outlook: "What words are most frequently misspelled in the papers? Two candidates for the honor have good claims. 'Haley'—'haled into court'—often appears as 'hailed.' 'Identify,' for some curious reason, is frequently printed 'indentify.' 'Supereeded,' 'ecstacy' and 'develope' might receive honorable mention in the list."

The earliest guide book printed in English is "Instructions for Forraine Travell," published in 1642 by James Howell, a famous traveler of that day.

"I dunno why 'tis," said Uncle Eben, "dat de smalles'-sized man allus wants to play de big bass drum an' de bigges' man allus wants to play de ukelele."

I Am Not Poor.

Pray hold me not in scorn. I am not poor. Poor rather is the man who desires many things. Where shall I take my place? Where in a little time from henceforth you shall know. Do you answer for yourself! From henceforth in a little time.—Leonardo da Vinci (translated by Edward Mc Curdy).

To Save Charred Documents.

Documents that have been charred by fire are rendered readable if collodion is poured over the charred paper. In a few minutes this dries and a tough, transparent coating is produced through which the printing can be seen. Bank notes and other papers thus charred have been treated in this way with success.

Daddy Broke His Face.

John was always an interested spectator when his father shaved. One morning the razor slipped and the skin was cut a trifle, and John turned and said regretfully to his mother, "Oh, see, daddy did break his nice face."

Self-Filler Elevators.

The small daughter was taken to the hospital to see her great-grandfather, who was ill, and when the party got to the corridor she exclaimed: "O goody, they have those elevators that are self-fillers."

Jelly Plant.

Comparatively few people know, says the American Forestry Magazine, that we are getting jelly from plants. The Reselle plant has high commercial value in the Philippines, Hawaii and other Pacific islands. The plant is an annual and attains a height of seven feet. It is probably the only plant in cultivation in which the part utilized for food is the calyx which has excellent qualities for the manufacture of jelly and allied products.

Thriving Table Leg.

Among the furnishings of a South Carolina home, says Popular Mechanics magazine, is a small willow table that is the talk of the neighborhood. Although it has been kept indoors and far from any moisture ever since it was built and properly painted, several months ago, one leg is now the proud parent of four leafy sprouts, which thrive in their strange surroundings.

Strange Street Names.

What is the quaintest street name you know of in London, past or present? It would probably be hard, relates the London Chronicle, to beat Shalligonaked street, which, according to the late Sir Laurence Gomme's evidence before the local records committee, appears as the name of a street in Wapping in a sewers rate book for 1748. In those days the naming of a street was not in the hands of a sedate public authority, hence the oddity of some of these old names.

Glory of a Nation.

The true glory of a nation is an intelligent, honest, industrious people. The civilization of a people depends on their individual character, and a constitution which is not an outgrowth of this character is not worth the parchment on which it is written. You look in vain in the past for a single instance where the people have preserved their liberties after their individual character was lost.—E. P. Whipple.

About the Tourmalines.

Tourmalines were discovered to us as gems in the eighteenth century, when some Dutch children, playing with bright colored stones on a warm summer day, noticed that they attracted and held straws and ashes. For some time after this the stones were called "ash drawers," and later it was discovered that they have electric power, greatest between the degrees of 100 and 200 Fahrenheit.

She Wanted Progress.

"No, sah, Ah doan't neber ride on dem things," said an old colored lady looking in on the merry-go-round. "Why, de other day I seen dat Rastus Johnson git on an' ride as much as a dollah's worth an' git off at the very same place he got on at, an' I sez to him: 'Rastus,' I sez, 'yo' spent yo' money, but whar yo' been?'"—Boston Transcript.

Of Course Paul Wasn't Mad.

Paul and Billy live in the country. There are two girls in the family also. Their aunts in town are fond of sending them things. One package contained nothing for Paul or Billy. Paul wrote to his grandmother: "What's the matter with my aunts? They sent a package out here and there wasn't a thing for Billy or me in it, and Billy's pretty mad about it."

Art of Omitting.

The fine art of living worthily includes an important chapter in omitting. If we know how to omit—particularly unkindness, unfairness, untruth, we shall find ourselves unspeakably richer at the end of the year. —Robert Louis Stevenson.

Round the Sport Circle with Jack Veiock International News Sporting Editor.

Temperament has its place in sport just as it has on the stage, but it must be the brand that spurs the player on to achieve success. Any other brand invariably flivvers.

Every great star in the various fields of athletic endeavor is endowed with temperament to some degree. Our champion boxers, ball players and track athletes have nervous energy put up within them. At times this energy explodes, and when it does the wags shake their heads and exclaim: "Temperament!"

In these days, with women and girls taking a prominent place in sports, we get a chance to study temperament at its best, for the fair sex certainly has a corner on it.

Recently, at Forest Hill, two great tennis players stepped onto a grass court to stage the match of the country. One was Mlle. Lenglen, the wonder girl of France; the other, Molla Mallory, the Norse comet.

After one set had been played Lenglen blew up with a loud report and defaulted to her dark-skinned, aggressive rival. She displayed temperament, but it was the opposite variety. She was tense as a bow string, eager as tigress and cool as a cucumber. She had determination written in every line of her face and every deft twist of her racquet. She was on edge—a veritable bundle of steel springs. This was the result of athletic temperament, without which no player in any red-blooded sport can succeed.

Mlle. Lenglin, Lacking Spirit of Fight Gave Way to Hysteria

Mlle. Lenglen undoubtedly knows the fine points of tennis and has the ability to play the game as it should be played, but she evidently lacks that grim something known as fighting spirit, and when she felt its lack for the first time in her career, she gave way to the only brand of temperament she knows. It is commonly called hysteria. True, the French girl was not at her very best. True, she had been ill before coming to America and had had little chance to practise before meeting Mrs. Mallory. But she came here an acknowledged star in the world of tennis—a finished products of the courts—and there were few in the great crowd that assembled to witness the match who did not feel that she should have made an effort to play it out. When Marvelous Molla went to St. Cloud she was not on her game, but she went down to defeat doing her best, and it is this trait that entitles her to the high rank she holds—the world's greatest woman tennis player.

Before shutting off thought of tennis we want to predict that our Ameri-Davis Cup Team will keep that coveted old trophy in Uncle Sam's domain, Tilden Johnston. Williams and Washburn! Nuf sed, Andrew, 'nuf sed!

Harry Darneille, the Wahington cop who whipped half a hundred citizens of a suburb, and then asked to be put on a beat where there was something doing, is without doubt a most capable minion of the law.

As a professional box-fighter, however, Harry has quite a distance to travel before he can hope to be classed as an attraction that promoters will fall over one another going after for matches.

Darneille made his professional debut in a Long Island City ring a few nights ago and made a sausage out of a battler from Yorkville, one Fred Schroeder. For a beginner Harry showed satisfactorily. He also paraded the fact that he has a lot to learn about the science of fisticuffs.

It was not long ago that the promoters throughout the country were delving into the tall and uncut timber for white hopes. You all remember those days. Well, Darneille is a carbon copy of the average "hope" during the period in which fistic impresarios were looking for a man to whip Jack Johnson. He may come along in great shape with careful coaching, but it will be best for Harry to make a thorough study of the manly art before he steps into the ring with any of the regulars.

THAT BASEBALL RAG

From time to time, as baseball seasons come and go, the Giants and Yankees are accused of buying, or trying to buy, a pennant. Yet New York has seen but few world's series games within the last few years and to date has never had an American League champion.

The 1917 Giants were the last New York champions, and they got a trimming in the world's series. The Dodgers, of course, have been up there, but no one ever accused Colonel Ebbets of buying a gonfalon, and that is only half the story.

If you look back a few years at the outlays made by the White Sox: and several other clubs in building up first division teams, you will recall deals that caused such players as Eddie Collins, Tris Speaker and Grover Alexander to change uniforms and the big money that was involved. Naturally enough, when the owners of the Yanks and Giants go into the market and lay down a lot of cash, they are not doing it for charity. Yet, after all, they do not deserve some of the things that have been said of them.

BOY ATTACKED BY RAT

(By International News Service)

MARTINS FERRY, O., Aug. 29.—While dressing for school, Michael Festich, aged eight, was attacked by a large rat. The boy fought back, using his shoes as weapons, but he was severely bitten before his parents rescued him. He was taken to a hospital for treatment.

DR. WESTPHAL NOW RAPIDLY RECOVERING

The latest reports are that Dr. H. G. Westphal, medical director of the Glendale sanitarium, who has been ill for several days with la grippe, bordering on pneumonia, has sufficiently recovered to be able to sit up for a short time each day. Dr. Westphal is under the personal direction of Dr. Johnson, assistant medical director of the sanitarium. On account of the patient's improved condition Dr. Johnson has deemed it safe to resume his vacation at Long Beach. He will remain there for several days.

RETAIL EXPPOSITION OPENS HERE WITH HUGE CROWD

ity to go with Secretary Rhoades—that splendid man who is always on the job for the Chamber of Commerce—to Verdugo Woodlands, the wonderful place which will some day be the great beauty spot of Southern California, and there I listened to a born orator who told the people before him of the wonderful future in store for this part of California and particularly Glendale, in a manner that I have never heard equalled.

Many Manufacturers Here

"I konw you have not realized the wonderful variety and extent of the manufactures of our home city. It means everything we can think of for the future of Glendale. It means that we must back up these splendid officials you have elected to carry on your government, to carry out not only the plans, but the dreams you have for this wonderful city.

"We must all get in line and do our part. Look at the program. Go from booth to booth and see what is being done in Glendale and go away from this place resolved to do your part in the upbuilding of this city."

The next item on the program and one eagerly awaited upon by coupon holders, was the drawing of the capital prize of $5 in gold. This was an impressive ceremony and everybody cheered when the prize went to a boy, Master Rambo, whose initials were not announced.

Neale & Gregg Prizes

The winners of the aluminum cake tin and of the prune pie and other special offerings by Neale & Gregg and other exhibitors, were announced, and then the program proper began, with vocal numbers by Miss Davis of the New York Follies, and Miss Ingle of the Cinderella Roof, who won appreciative applause and made a charming appearance on the high stage. Orchestral music followed throughout the evening, interspersed with specialties announced on the program—Miss Clas sie Marlowe, exhibiting new styles of drapes, a fashion revue by mannikins representing Gilbert's Millinery, the Hatz Specialty Shop, and others.

People Visit Booths

Meanwhile, the crowd surged back and forth from aisle to aisle, inspecting all the exhibits and sampling all the good things to eat and drink. A great hit was made by Coker & Taylor in connection with the exhibit of the "Direct Action" gas stove, in which biscuits were baked throughout the evening, which were mixed and handed out to the crowd by little Gwendolyn Merrill, about nine years old, who was cool and collected, as methodical as an old housekeeper. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. Wililam Harvey of West Los Feliz road, who yielded to the persuasions of the little girl and taught her to make biscuits a few months ago.

The Attendance

Two thousand, two hundred and eight Glendale people and visitors crowded into the big tent Saturday night.

Program Tonight

The program tonight at the Merchants' Exposition will be as follows:

7:00—Selections by the Exposition Orchestra.

7:30—Gold prizes given away.

8:00—Instrumental and vocal selections.

8:30—Real estate address by H. M. Miller on "Why You Should Live in Glendale.'

9:00—Special toe dancing by one of the Ruth St. Denis toe dancers.

9:30—Wonderful fashion revue.

10:00—More prizes.

From 10:00 until 11:00 there will be special music of different kinds.

C. of C. GOING OVER TOP IN DRIVE FOR MEMBERS

be given in the big tent Tuesday evening of next week. He has already begun work on the program to be given on that occasion and says it will be one of the finest ever given in Glendale. There will be a band of at least 25 pieces on hand to serve music of the spiciest order. This band will be composed entirely of Glendale boys. So far as is possible this will be a "made in Glendale" program. There will, however, be a star or two secured from the outside. For instance, an attempt will be made to secure Will Rogers or some equally talented and popular motion picture actor and possibly a couple of actresses. It is definitely known that on this occasion Mayor Spencer Robinson, the silved-voiced tenor, will render one or two choice numbers.

Rally Starts Larger Drive

This rally will be held to start the drive for 1000 members in the Chamber of Commerce. It is expected that with this affair the drive, which is to be carried to every residential section of the city, will start. It is the intention of Assistant Secretary Sanders to give every resident of Glendale a chance to aid in the upbuilding of the city as a whole by becoming a member of the chamber, and it is confidently expected that before the greater drive is over more than the 1000 memberships to the chamber will have been secured.

"Although we have secured just 100 new paid memberships and applications to the chamber," said Mr. Sanders this morning, "we have, in fact, secured more than 140 new members Each business house is entitled to enlist its different employes under the one paid membership, and on several occasions the merchants have taken advantage of this fact.

Thankful to People

"We are more than thankful to the people of this city for so loyally standing back of and getting back of the Chamber of Commerce. I believe that all of those who have become members in this drive or who have enrolled for membership are genuine boosters. They have come into the organization with the desire to help Glendale grow and we are going to give one and all a chance to assist in this work, for the building up of a city the size of Glendale cannot be done by one man or by a handful of men. Every man must put his shoulder to the wheel and push.

"We are now looking forward to the big rally that will be held on Tuesday evening of next week. Keep the date in mind—Tuesday evening in the big tent, where the Merchants' Exposition is being held this week. The tent is being loaned to us by the company that is putting on the exposition, and we certainly appreciate what they are doing for us.

"Strange as it may seem, it is a fact that the drive for new members to the Glendale Chamber of Commerce has just started. With the coming of Tuesday evening of next week we are going after this matter harder than ever and we expect to get some astonishing results."

URGES LAW STUDY FOR CONGRESSIONAL CAREER

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—"Study law, young man, study law!"

If Horace Greeley were alive today and could cast his critical and far-seeing-eye over Washington, allowing it to linger a moment on the great white domes of the Capitol, he surely would advise his famous admonition to youth. Instead of advising young men to "Go West, Go West!" he would undoubtedly suggest that they dig into law.

A vocational analysis of Congress, with its 96 Senators and its 435 Representatives, reveals many interesting things. And not the least of these revelations is the fact that nearly 60 per cent of the membership of both Houses of Congress found success by pursuing the dry and somewhat arduous pathway that leads through law and the courts.

Of the 531 members of the House and Senate 333 are lawyers, and many more of them have studied the law's intricacies. Most of this 333 rate themselves as "practicing attorneys." Others, through wealth and success, have escaped the drudgery of active practice and are "big" enough to gain fat fees in consultative and advisory capacities, but they claim the law as their principal avocation.

Truly do lawyers make our laws and then charge us for interpreting them!

The cry of the soap-box orator that "the country is in the grip of lawyers" seems borne out, if the vocational analysis of Congress can be taken as a criterion.

In the main the careers of these lawyer-legislators have run through about the same channels. They have for the most part been started in "Judge So-and-So's law office." After the dry and tedious apprenticeship they have branched out for themselves, maybe hanging out a modest shingle of their own or perhaps joining some already well-established firm.

The first political step usually was taken in municipal or county or district politics and then up through the various stages until they have finally landed in Congress. A few, very few of them, have leaped to success, as revealed in their illuminating biographies in the Congressional Record. Most of them have come up by slow and easy stages.

The moral contained in a vocational survey of Congress, if there is one, apparently is:

"If you want a political career, get into law."

Three hundred and thirty-three lawyers in Congress. Nearly 60 per cent!

And the rest of them—what of them?

They are editors, farmers, manufacturers, real estate and insurance men, bankers, doctors, teachers, merchants, coal dealers, dentists, engineers, and what not—a cross section of any prosperous American community.

After the law it seems that newspaper work is the best avenue through which to make a Congressional approach. There are twenty-four editors and publishers of newspapers in the two branches of Congress.

Of farmers there are twenty-two. It should be explained, however, that most of those who list themselves as "farmers" are not of the "dirt farmer" variety. Very few of them, during Congressional recesses, go out to the stables at 4 a. m., harness a draft team by lantern-light and are to be seen sinking their ploughs into the soil by sunrise. They could more properly be termed "farm owners" than farmers.

There are nineteen members of Congress who list their principal business as manufacturing, thirteen as real estate and insurance, and eleven as bankers. There are many more than eleven interested and connected with banking enterprises, but apparently it is a side-line to their regular business.

There are many wealthy men in Congress, but there are only two whose biographies reveal so little of their business enterprises as to merit the classification of "capitalist."

The balance of Congress is scattered among a dozen vocations and callings. One member lists his business as "owner of a clipping bureau," another as a restaurant proprietor, another as a well driller, etc.

If the representation of lawyers were cut down to a somewhere near proportionate size Congress would be a typical cross section of American business and professional life—there are men in it who live entirely on their salaries there are others whose salaries hardly pay their servants' salaries, but the vast majority of them are men in circumstances that could be described as "easy."

And most of 'em got it through law.

Watched Him Swell.

Leslie had been suffering with a severe toothache so that his face had become badly swollen. Returning from school the following day his mother asked him what the teacher said to him and he replied, "She did not say anything, but the kids all got around me to watch me swell."

An Indian Dawn.

I awoke—and beyond the great trees I saw the dawn come up like thunder, as it does on Mandaley. Exactly like thunder it came up, rolling, rising, crashing clouds of copper and dull gold, reddening, breaking, mounting out-topping one another.—Atlantic.

Ball vs. Roller Bearings.

Ball bearings are a German invention, and it is only a few years ago that they made their appearance on the market. Roller bearings, both cylindrical and conical, are an American invention. The advantages claimed for the rollers over the balls are that they can sustain both the radial and the axial strain and they are more easily replaced when they become worn.

Concrete Amusements.

To cultivate a spirit of restfulness, and a larger vision, is the aim or should be of those who would prevent delinquency. Concrete amusements are desirable, says a writer, but they do not make up for instilling the habit of leisurely friendships, that are equally appreciated by the boy in his adolescence, or the man who has become a fine citizen through their influence.

Cleaning Gilt Frames.

Gilt frames may be cleaned by washing them with a small sponge moistened with oil of turpentine, the sponge being only sufficient wet to take off the marks. The gilding should not be wiped off, but left to dry without wiping. Varnishing with the best copal varnish is advised for gilt frames, as they can then be washed off carefully with a sponge.

Fond of Chicken Hearts.

Lucy is fond of the hearts of all fowls. When dining out with friends she was asked what her choice of the chicken was. Forgetting the name for the moment, she said: "I fordet de name. It's de part what makes his live."

Circle of Ulloa.

The circle of Ulloa is a white rainbow or luminous ring sometimes seen in Alpine regions opposite the sun in foggy weather. It's an odd sight.

Mrs. Childers, 219 West California, underwent an operation for the removal of her tonsils at the Glendale Sanitarium Friday morning at 10 o'clock. Dr. H. R. Boyer had charge of the case. The patient is doing nicely.

Miss Lucas was operated on Friday afternoon for the removal of tonsils. Her present condition is satisfactory.

* * *

Richard Arnold, 211 East Lomita, had his tonsils and adenoids removed at the Glendale Sanitarium Friday morning. Latest reports show that Mr. Arnold is getting along nicely.

Miss Dorothy Ormes, of 308 North Orange street, was operated on this morning at 8:30 for the removal of her tonsils. She is doing nicely.

Everett Anderson of 1339 East Harvard street, who, for the past several weeks has been visiting with his relatives in the east, returned to his home in Glendale the latter part of last week.

* * *

Mrs. Mary Scantland, of Los Angeles, formerly of Glendale, came out last evening to attend services at Central Christian Church, where her father, Elder J. W. Utter, preached. Her little daughter Betty was with her.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA FAIR

Entries for the various departments of the Southern California fair are beginning to come in to the secretary and the interest displayed indicates a most lively competition in all classes.

From the livestock entries received and from direct information on others there can be no doubt that every department of the livestock show will be heavily represented.

Another feature which is indicated by the interest already shown is that there will be more small breeders to exhibit this year than ever before. In the cattle department, the dairy breeds will take the lead and the largest dairy show in the state will be at Riverside.

Another interesting feature of the fair as indicated at present is the poultry show. Mr. E. I. Hammond, superintendent of that department, reports that present indications point to the largest poultry show ever held at Riverside, and this means Southern California, as Riverside has the reputation for some years of holding great poultry exhibitions. There will be a wonderful bantam show under the auspices of the National Association, and assurances are already received that this will be the largest bantam show on the coast.

The big agricultural tent will be a marvel in its showing of the production of Southern California. Space is rapidly being reserved and it will only be a short time until everything available is taken.

Nearly every community of the county has arranged for space and there will be five or six counties of Southern California exhibit.

Another department this year which will be watched with interest is the individual displays of agricultural or horticultural production. Each farm center or Chamber of Commerce is urged to enlist individual exhibitors and a large general exhibit is expected.

BOY SCOUTS ENJOY CAMP LIFE AT LYTLE CREEK CANYON

The following letter from Scout Director Robison tells its own story of the doings of the scouts at camp:

" Glendale Boy Scout Camp,
" Lytle Creek Canyon.

"Dear Glendale Press:

"Everyone is well and happy in the Boy Scout Camp in Lytle Creek, and everyone is having a fine time.

"Friday, 11 of the older boys, in charge of Scout Director Robison, jr., hiked to a point above the third of Bonita Falls, a jaunt which, for beauty and wildness of scenery, can scarcely be equalled in Southern California.

"At the campfire that evening, badges were presented as follows: First Class, to Hugo Ells of troop No. 3; Second Class, to Robert Eastman of troop No. 4, and to Horace Brown of troop No. 2; Tenderfoot, to Charles Kausen of troop No. 2. The boys have passed a number of tests during the past week and secured a number of merit badges.

"Saturday was a busy day because the boys tried their hands at washing clothes so their uniforms would be clean for Sunday, and in the afternoon had a swim in the Glen Ranch pool.

"That evening at the campfire, a comedy was put on by some of the boys of troop No. 2. Clifford Walcott had the role of Mrs. Jones, the gossip; Arthur Barton was her son, Willie Jones, and Dallas Kalbaugh was "the Cat, Mrs. Smythe." There were songs and stories, and then a watermelon treat was provided by Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Kalbaugh, who were guests at the camp Saturday and Sunday.

"Sunday proved a big day in camp. Scout church was held in a beautiful wood near camp. Scout Director Robison, who conducted the service, took as his theme Psalm 121: "I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills from whence cometh my strength." He spoke of the worth-while things of life and of God's help in solving life's problems.

"By 10 o'clock, friends and parents began to arrive. Each asked one or two boys to lunch. The meal was a huge picnic and the woods fairly rang with laughter.

The guest list included Mr. and Mrs. Wood, Mr. and Mrs. Kalbaugh, Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Haines, sr., and Miss Haines, Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Haines, jr., Mr. and Mrs. Packard, two sons and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Kausen and family, Dr. and Mrs. C. G. Farrow, Virginia Farrow and Mrs. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. McKittrick, of Colton, Ont., and Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Walcott. The last named brought a treat which caused a cheer of delight—ice cream, which never tasted so good as it did there in the mountains.

"Sunday afternoon, Benjamin Robison, sr., led a party of guests to Bonita Falls. On their return they witnessed the call to colors and the lowering of the flag, an impressive ceremony. The scouts lined up on Company street and marched to the parade ground. Wallace Haines, bugler, played a stirring march. After the lowering of the colors, the boys marched back to Company street and were dismissed for supper.

"The campfire in the evening fitly ended a perfect day, but that will have to be another story.

"H. B. ROBISON,
"Scout Director."

THE LUNCH BOX

E. P. Ransom, 501 West Patterson street, has purchased and already taken possession of Kyncy's lunch room at 103 West Broadway. Hereafter the establishment will be known as "The Lunch Box." Radical changes in the way of operation of this lunch room are to be made by the new management. In many ways the place will be improved and the new manager promises that hereafter this restaurant will be one of the best managed establishments in Glendale. This little place is proving exceedingly popular with the business men and other residents of Glendale. Mr. Ransom has just disposed of his home on West Patterson street, and will soon erect a home on North Maryland street.

BELFAST SITUATION SERIOUS

LONDON, Aug. 29.—One person was killed and many were wounded in an outbreak of intense rioting at Belfast this afternoon, said a Central News dispatch from that city. Some streets were impassable owing to violent rifle and revolver firing. The situation is serious.

Center of Jute Industry.

Dundee practically owes its existence to its textile industry. It was the pioneer in the adoption of jute as a fiber for making cloth of a cheap quality, and its hold upon the trade has been so firmly maintained and developed that Dundee is recognized as the principal center of the jute industry in Great Britain.

WURLITZER SCORES AT PALACE GRAND

That "music hath charms" was proven most successfully at the Palace Grand last night, when an artist of individual distinction, Henri Monnet, dedicated the new Wurlitzer organ to Mr and Mrs. Public and family.

"The Bridal Rose," rendered as an opening number, received a hearty response in applause and murmurs of pleased surprise. "Emaline," one of the latest popular songs, of rare sentiment and beauty, furnished an appropriate encore and gave an opportunity for solo and combination effects of real melody.

The same program will be repeated today in conjunction with an especially attractive double picture bill.

Singing Requires Strength.

Students should remember that singing right requires great physical strength, observes a vocal teacher. The late Madame Nordica remarked that it required the training of a prize fighter. The human race is not physically as strong as it was a hundred years ago. The abdominal muscles seem to have suffered the greatest relapse, hence the scarcity of really great singers. In singing more than in anything else it is the "survival of the fittest."

Steam Against Sails.

Modern naval development may be said to have begun with the rapid increase in the size of ships which took place at the close of the fifteenth century; and mediaeval history finally closed with the battle of Lepanto in 1571, the last great action in which rowing galleys played an important part. From this time the sail-propelled man-of-war was gradually improved until early in the nineteenth century, when sails began to give way to steam.

The Capital's Fifth Avenue.

Pennsylvania avenue in Washington is usually listed among the world's famous streets, but to the Washingtonian this avenue has not half the importance and attractiveness of F street, the recognized parade ground of the fashionable on sunny afternoons. F street in Washington is an institution like the monument, the government clerk and band concerts in the parks. It dates back far enough to tax the memory of Washington's few oldest inhabitants, but no records of its origin are filed in the city hall.

Size of a City Lot.

The question is often asked what part of an acre an ordinary city lot is. One 66x165 feet contains just a quarter-acre and contains 10,890 square feet. Ten acres, if square, would measure 660 feet along each side and a strip of that length and one-tenth the length, or 66 feet, would make an acre, and if but one-fourth as long or 165 feet would make a quarter acre. This is a good-sized city lot.

Grandmother in Eighteen Days.

A lady green bug becomes a grandmother in 18 days. One can imagine, then, notes a naturalist, the multitudinous armies of these insects that may develop in the course of a season. Their worst foe is a tiny black four-winged fly that deposits an egg in each bug it comes across, its larva consuming the bug's inside works and using its shell for a house.

Favors Early Parenthood.

Early parenthood is productive of warriors, but not of good brain workers, for, says Doctor Redfield, "when we look over those intellectually superior men who have done so much for the world's advancement we find them to have been predominantly the sons of elderly parents and only rarely the sons of men less than twenty-five."

Little Mary Was Angry.

Mary was playing on the floor with her doll. She couldn't get the doll to sit in a certain position she desired and so she banged it on the floor with great impatience and yelled at the top of her voice, "I wish I belonged to a family that sweared."

Tibet History Lost.

The history of Tibet is lost in the obscurity of the long ago, for its customs date back to the morning of the world. Its people come from the ancient ages, and it is only known that they belong to the Tibeto-Indo-Chinese branch of Keene's Homo Mongolicus.

Definition of True Friend.

"A friend," said Uncle Eben, "is a man dat laughs at yoh funny stories even if dey ain't so good; an' sympathizes wif yoh misfortunes, even if dey ain't so bad."

W. C. T. U. INSTITUTE HAS INTERESTING SESSION TODAY

Dr. Maude Perkins, national officer of the W. C. T. U. and head of the young people's branch work, was the outstanding figure at the institute which opened this morning in the Baptist Church, over which Mrs. Hattie Doughty, state Y. P. B. secretary, presided.

Dr. Perkins told of the general program of work for the coming year. She is a woman of charming personality and fairly glows with an inspiring enthusiasm. Her main address has been reserved for this afternoon, and this evening a reception to honor her and other national delegates will take place.

At the close of her talk several questions were asked, the leading query being by Mrs. Ruby Smart, on how to combat the growing evils of the tobacco habit among young women as well as men. Mrs. Smart referred to the current fiction, in which the smoking of cigarettes by the heroines is referred to as a matter of course, and dwelt on the demoralizing effect on the rising generation.

Mrs. Perkins, in reply, urged the making of protests to publishers of magazines and books by the W. C. T. U. as an organized body and by the Y. P. B. Individuual protest counts for little, she said but when the appeal comes from great organizations it must be given attention. She urged the same course in connection with objectionable features in movie films.

Mrs. R. W. Mottern made a brief talk on the relation of the Young People's Branch to the W. C. T. U., declaring: "The greatest danger confronting the nation today is the lack of children in American homes. The foreign population is having lots of children and in a short time those children will be voters.

"It is the same thing in the W. C. T. U. If we have no children coming on we will not have any one to take our places when we must sit back in the corner. We should organize these Y. P. B.s that are in earnest and in sympathy with the aims and principles of the W. C. T. U. and not simply a social organization. The most important thing is to secure a leader."

First Advertisement.

Although the first periodical paper which contained news in England appeared in May, 1622, the first newspaper advertisement published does not seem to have been until nearly twenty-five years afterward. The advertisement related to the sale of a book "applauded by the Clergy of England."

Title of Admiral.

The rank or title of admiral did not exist in the United States navy until 1866, when it was created by congress and conferred on David G. Farragut. He held it until his death, in 1870, and his successors have been: David D. Porter, 1870 to 1891, and George Dewey, from 1899 till his death, January 16, 1917. With his death the title lapsed and has not been revived.

How Alaska Got Its Name.

The name Alaska is said to have been given to the whole of that territory by the Russian traders who first reached the island of Unlashka, on the authority of the natives, who declared that to the eastward there was a great land or territory which was called Alayeska. From this the present name of Alaska is derived.

For Hardwood Floor.

If an unfilled or undressed hardwood floor becomes gray apply a solution of two ounces of oxalic acid dissolved in just enough water to wet it well all over. Let stand 15 or 20 minutes; then rinse in cold water and proceed to wash without suds as usual.

Fine for Company.

I had given a friend a recipe for a pudding. One day I was at her house with several others and at dinner the pudding was served. The woman next to me remarked how nice it was and I said, "Yes, and it is so cheap." Every one at the table smiled.—Exchange.

The Old Octagon Coin.

The most valuable coin authorized in the United States is the double Eagle, worth $20, of course. But there was formerly struck in California what was called an "octagon" because of its shape, and it passed for $50. It was current elsewhere, but never legal tender.
